$2,475,000 PRICE TAG

Marguerite, Land Bought by Province

FORMER CPR ticket office and shipping terminal, included in the government's package deal, was built in 1919 and designed by Francis Rattenbury, the architect responsible for the legislative buildings.

The provincial government has purchased the Princess Marguerite and 8.7 acres of Marathon Realty property at the Inner Harbor for a total price of $2,475,000.

Premier Barrett announced the purchase today and said the Marguerite will begin a regular summer season of sailings to Seattle starting on the Victoria Day weekend.

Barrett said he hopes to see the Marguerite restored to an appropriate Victorian style and to make the trip to and from Seattle an attraction in itself.

Canadian Pacific abandoned the summer service last fall because of financial losses and Barrett said the government may have to increase fares if the service continues to be a losing proposition.

But the severe economic strain a termination of service would have placed on businesses in Victoria this summer made it imperative the government move to insure continuation of the ferry service.

Along with the 27-year-old ferry, the government has acquired several acres of land and two federal leases in the harbor area, also formerly controlled by Marathon, the real estate arm of Canadian Pacific.

The purchase price is $1,375,000 lower than the $3,850,000 estimated value placed on the package by Marathon and is substantially less than Marathon's last official asking price of $2,950,000.

Asked what kind of pressure the government used to bring the price down, Barrett said the government indicated to Marathon that "it didn't want to have to go through the expropriation route."

Included in the package are all the equipment and furnishings of the Marguerite; the old ticket office now housing the Royal London Wax Museum; leases for the steamship operation; the old wharf; the lands between Menzies and Oswego; all the buildings for the steamship operation; and lands west of the leased area.

Barrett said the government will continue leases to commercial operations occupying parts of the newly-purchased property.

Those leases, which net $65,000 annual profit, are held by Pacific Undersea Gardens, the Wax Museum, Pacific Logging, Air West Airlines, Tony Burton sailing school and the city of Victoria which

ICBC Strike Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strike vote is being held among the 2,000 union employees at the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia.

A spokesman for the Office and Technical Employees Union, which represents the ICBC workers, said the vote was called in response to a company wage offer providing a 14-per-cent wage increase in a one-year contract.

DIAL-A-DUEL FOR HONOR

The politest duel in history was fought in defence of Queen Elizabeth today.

It took place in a telephone call between Patrick Crean, Stratford's fencing master, and William Hamilton, the British politician who wrote what Crean describes as a "scurrilous" book on the royal family.

Crean is teaching stage fencing in Victoria and described the phone "duel" between here and Toronto, where Hamilton is promoting his book, as:

"It was really a very delightful 10 minutes. From the start we called each other Paddy and Willie, all rather English, what?"

Crean said although he was a royalist, he was not a royalist oaf.

"I rather liked the man," he said. "It's just that we have two ideologies."

Crean said he and Hamilton have a luncheon date in London some time later this year.

"The dice were loaded in his favor," Crean said of the verbal match. "The fact remains he's a man of words and it's a hell of a way to fight a duel."

Would-Be Bandit Ignored

A masked and armed man who tried to hold up three staff members as they left an Esquimalt beer parlor early today finally fled in a rage after being ignored by his would-be victims.

Clyde Ogilvie, manager of the Halfway House, 856 Esquimalt Rd., said he, tapman Ron Champion and waiter Terry Helmer, had just left the building about 2:30 a.m. to drive home when a man with a nylon stocking over his head and some sort of pistol in his hand ran up to them from a nearby service station.

The gunman ordered the trio back inside but they kept walking, telling him they were going home and that if he wanted in he should knock on the door.

For a few moments the three employees stood around while the gunman circled them, getting angrier by the moment. He finally fled across a parking lot.

Esquimalt police said today they are investigating the incident.

3 More Cities Topple in South

SAIGON (UPI—WP) North Vietnamese troops and infantry today over-ran the Coastal cities of Qui Nhon, Tuy Hoa and Nha Trang as government defences crumbled and the threat to Saigon increased by the hour.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu abruptly cancelled a meeting with the U.S. chief of staff, Gen Frederick Weyand, President Ford's special envoy, on the eve of his departure for the United States. No public explanation was given.

At the same time militant Buddhist monks led by Thich Tri Quang, who led the struggle against President Ngo Dinh Diem, took to the streets for the first time in years with banners demanding Thieu's immediate resignation.

The monks were driven back into a pagoda by national police after a short march.

These and other developments signify rapidly mounting political trouble for Thieu as battlefield disasters multiply. Although he shows no present sign of giving in to his critics — whose numbers are increasing both on the right and left — his position is less secure with each passing day.

While government troops abandoned millions of dollars of U.S. equipment in their flight — some sources said more than $1 billion worth — the first plane of a U.S. emergency airlift arrived in Saigon

Daily Raps Critics

By SUSAN RUTTAN

VANCOUVER — Irresponsible public criticism of educational policies by the B.C. Teachers Federation could undermine public confidence in education and lead to a backlash, Education Minister Eileen Dailly said Monday. (See other BCTF stories on Page 16.)

Speaking to a crowd of about 800 on the first day of the BCTF annual general meeting, Dailly said the federation should be careful how it voices its concerns.

"For example, public attacks on internal personnel matters within the department of education, do not serve the cause of education," she said.

The minister was referring to strong criticism by outgoing BCTF president Jim MacFarlan of her firing of members of the education department's research and development division earlier this year.

MacFarlan called for Dailly's resignation over the incident and reiterated his stand in his farewell address earlier Monday.

Dailly urged the federation to insure "that when it brings its case to the government that it truly reflects the views of the majority of its own members," a statement the teacher audience applauded.

MacFarlan countered the statement immediately after Dailly's speech by saying the federation is always careful to ensure that the majority's views be reflected.

The minister said that negative criticism could create "an undermining of public confidence in education itself and a public backlash which could not only undo the gains which we together have made in the last three years but could return us in B.C. to the worst features of what we had before."

SIXTH HOLDUP

"I have a gun . . . give me the money in the till," the man told Mrs. Hang-yu Lee, cashier at the store at 579 Niagara St.

He handed her a brown paper bag and motioned her to empty the till, then ran from the store without removing the gun from his pocket.

The cashier pursued him down Niagara to Government St., losing him at Battery St. The holdup occurred at 11:10 a.m.

This is the sixth robbery in Victoria in the past 10 days, five of which hit small stores.

Some Gas Already Up By Two Cents a Gallon

The guidelines apply to wholesale prices only but the two-cent increase was being passed along at the retail level.

First to increase their wholesale prices was Standard Oil (Chevron) and Gulf Oil Canada. All other companies are expected to increase their prices this week.

Standard increased its wholesale price of gasoline two cents a gallon but did not alter any other prices at this time.

Gulf Oil raised its gas price by 2.4 cents a gallon wholesale. This was still within the guideline, because its price had been half a cent below a previous guideline.

In effect Gulf raised its price by the half cent it was previously allowed and then raised its prices an additional 1.9 cents a gallon. It raised prices by 2 cents a gallon for home heating oil, aviation gasoline and jet fuel. Diesel fuel went up 2.2 cents a gallon wholesale.

(The provincial guideline of a two-cent increase applies to gasoline and heating oil only. Meanwhile, federal guides continue on all petroleum products. Companies must justify any price increases in terms of increased costs.)

The increases raise the average price of gasoline in Victoria to 61.9 cents a gallon for regular and furnace oil jumps to 37.9 cents a gallon.

Retail prices vary from station to station.

One Gulf retailer said he was raising his price by three cents a gallon although the wholesale price increase had only been 2.4 cents. Most stations simply passed the wholesale increase along without alteration.

$6,000 UFO Study

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council has awarded a $6,000 grant to John W. Musgrave of Edmonton to finance an historical study of sightings of unidentified flying objects in Canada.

"It's not a put-on," said Paul-Emile Leblanc, head of the council's explorations program, in an interview today. "It's a serious study."

Musgrave has a master's degree in science and teaches at Athabasca University in Edmonton. He has been interested in UFOs for some time.

He intends to study newspaper clippings, journals and follow up with personal interviews with people who have sighted strange things in the sky.

The grant will cover his travelling expenses.

Canadian Killed On Cyprus

OTTAWA (CP) — Ian Patten, 29, a Canadian Forces captain who spent six weeks in Viet Cong captivity in 1973, was killed Tuesday while serving with Canadian peacekeepers in Cyprus.

The defence department said Patten, from Etobicoke, Ont., was killed by a bullet fired at his Nicosia hotel during shooting between Turkish- and Greek-Cypriots.

He was found in his room in the Ledra Palace hotel, which is occupied by the Canadian contingent to the UN force.

Nicosia was quiet today after the two-hour gun battle.

The shooting began around Nicosia international airport, closed since the Turkish invasion in July.

Greek-Cypriots and Turkish army troops face each other at close range there, and the firing rapidly spread throughout the capital.

The firing began when Greek national guard conscripts fired shots in the air to mark the 20th anniversary of the EOKA guerrilla uprising against the British colonial administration.

Gunmen Held in Coquitlam Manhunt

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — Two men were taken into custody today following an overnight search for four suspects wanted in connection with Monday's abortive robbery of a bank at nearby Coquitlam and the wounding of two RCMP officers.

Police said the two men, one of whom was armed, were arrested near the spot one of two cars used in the attempted holdup had been abandoned. They did not offer resistance.

Meanwhile, the RCMP pressed their search for the two other men. "It looks promising, but we've still got a hell of a long way to go," one RCMP official said. (See pictures, Page 28.)

The two RCMP officers were wounded — neither seriously — during a wild chase that followed the robbery attempt at a branch of the Bank of Montreal at nearby Coquitlam, about 15 miles east of Vancouver. Two other suspects also were at large.

Throughout the night about 50 RCMP accompanied by tracking dogs patrolled a cordoned-off area about two miles long by half a mile wide. Parts of the area were bathed in floodlights while many policemen carried rifles equipped with infra-red telescopic sights that permitted them to see in the dark.

Police concentrated in the area after daylight searches involving men, dogs and aircraft turned up a weapon belonging to one of the suspects and a wig and false mustache.

Police said the holdup attempt began when two armed men forced their way into the bank Monday morning as employees were arriving for work. Two accomplices remained outside, one acting as a lookout, the other ready to drive one of two getaway cars.

Brian Noble, the branch manager, notified police that he suspected something was wrong when he approached the bank. Several police cars arrived at the bank, but they were sighted by the robbbers who fled.

During the getaway, one man sprayed the bank parking lot with bullets from a semi-automatic M-1 carbine. Another attempted to take a male employee hostage, but was pushed away.

When the two suspect cars split up, police concentrated their pursuit on the vehicle from which shots were being fired. It contained the two men who entered the bank. Meanwhile, the second car, occupied by a lookout man and his driver, escaped down a sideroad.

The first car, hit by four police bullets, later was found abandoned near here and the two men were believed to have fled into the bush.

Marguerite Package Bought by Province

The premier said he would like to see a great deal of public participation in planning the future of the Marguerite and the land purchased by the government.

NDP Esquimalt MLA Jim Gorst will chair an advisory committee of citizen and business people to advise on development of the new acquisition.

Mayor Peter Pollen was informed of the purchase this morning and Barrett said the government hopes to work with the mayor and city council on developing the entire waterfront area.

He said the city has indicated it may wish to see relocation of the Black Ball ferry terminal out of the Inner Harbor.

Mayor Peter Pollen greeted the government announcement with "mixed feelings," saying it was reassuring for the future of Victoria's tourism that the Seattle link would be maintained, but he personally questioned the economic wisdom of operating an obsolete vessel.

"I don't think all the options have been adequately explored," he said, among them the proposal by a U.S.-based group to operate a smaller, 500-seat vessel, the Avalon.

The Marguerite's value in the total deal is really a "negative value," the mayor said, because a substantial amount will have to be spent on upgrading the vessel and the service.

Depending on the standard considered desirable or necessary, refurbishing costs for the ship alone could total $800,000. "The kitchens are in a deplorable state, the furniture is pre-war, the standard of the cabins is pretty terrible ..."

But Pollen added: "I gag particularly when I wonder how much it's going to cost to operate this vessel."

He noted the city had been on the point of concluding a deal to acquire the Marathon Realty waterfront property in August, 1973, for about $1.2 million, and that the purchase price now disclosed by the government — including the ship and the leases — is for double that amount.

But he finds it "rather difficult" to comment on whether or not it is a good deal for the government, as property prices have escalated considerably in the last 18 months.

Robert McHaffie, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said the news of the purchase was "nothing less than excellent," and commended the government on its move.

He said businessmen would still like to see the Avalon operating on the route as an adjunct to the Marguerite.

The provincial government has already obtained the cooperation of Washington State in the negotiations, said Barrett, and the state has agreed to reduce the cost of customs service on the American side by $90,000.

The premier said he has talked with Washington Governor Dan Evans about the possibility of an inaugural run for the Marguerite before the May 24 celebrations.

Negotiations for the terminal site in Seattle are still pending, he said.

No details of the ferry service have been worked out as yet but government officials said they expect it will operate a daily service much the same as in previous years with one round trip starting in Seattle.

Entertainment will likely be provided and the lounge area continued along with restoration of the ship itself.

By operating the service through an independent organization, the government hopes to get an accurate picture of the costs and probable losses of the annual summer service. Barrett said this summer's operation will be "a kind of experiment" to determine how best the ferry service should be run.

GARLIC MUNCHER GOES TO ONIONS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Brian Inglis who lost a job and was cut off welfare because of his penchant for garlic cloves, has figured out a compromise with his new boss and customers. He now eats onions instead.

Inglis, 30, who started eating garlic about a year ago when he discovered he had a pre-ulceric condition, was told by his boss at a taxi company to quit the habit or face losing his taxi-driving job.

Although Inglis, a vegetarian, kept the windows open and used a considerable amount of air freshener, customers complained of bad odors.

He was fired from a previous job at an appliance store and subsequently was cut off welfare because he refused to stop eating garlic. Inglis, who ate up to 18 cloves a day with his diet of raw vegetables, fruit and nuts, said he regretted giving up the garlic. But, he said, onions are "almost as good, and a lot less pungent."

Dailly Now Fears Public Backlash

Her low-key 50-minute speech was applauded by the teachers, but there were none of the cheers and standing ovations that greeted her first speech as minister to a BCTF annual meeting in 1973.

The minister listed the many things the NDP government has done for teachers and their federation, such as reinstating compulsory BCTF membership.

She congratulated those school boards which have begun letting teachers sit in on the final review of their budgets, and promised to encourage more boards to do so.

Dailly said her department will, wherever possible, provide funds for in-service programs to help teachers control their classrooms now that corporal punishment has been outlawed.

The minister outlined a pilot project in reading and writing skills to help improve curricula in this area.

The project, which will evaluate current teaching of reading and writing in B.C. schools, will include a teacher questionnaire to be sent out in May and testing of a random sampling of students in October.

Dailly challenged teachers to improve their ability to detect learning disabilities in students and to take a special interest in the appalling dropout rate of native Indian students.

Fire Hits Paper Firm

A small fire today destroyed three large bales of paper stacked outside the Allan Paper Stock Co., 475 Tyee Road.

The bales, mostly composed of flattened cardboard boxes, were torn apart by Victoria firemen and doused with water.

It is not known how the fire started.

The low figures given for temperatures in this forcast are no April Fool's joke. This is the day Canada switches to metric temperatures and all readings are in degrees Celsius.

Skies were clear throughout most of B.C. overnight as a weak ridge of high pressure covered the interior. However, a Pacific disturbance brought cloud and rain to the north coast this morning. The cloud is spreading east and south and will cover most of B.C. by midnight. Showery unsettled weather will persist throughout most of the province on Wednesday. Little change in the present temperature pattern is expected.

today with 14 105 MM howitzers and ammunition.

It was a drop in the bucket for the defence of Saigon where panic was increasing and foreigners began fleeing the country.

Military sources said Communist tanks swept through Naha Trang's streets virtually unopposed today as government troops fled, and Communist soldiers broke into the town jail and freed all the Viet Cong prisoners inside.

The province chief made a frantic telephone call to Saigon command headquarters, the sources said.

"I am leaving," he was quoted as saying. "The situation is hopeless." Then he hung up without waiting for orders.

The government abandoned Qui Nhon, South Vietman's fourth largest city 250 miles north of Saigon, without a fight, and the loss of Binh Dinh province became inevitable.

Tuy Hoa, 47 miles south of Qui Nhon, was evacuated by boat this morning, military sources said.

The attack on Nha Trang, 188 miles northeast of Saigon forced the government to move its headquarters for the central region of south Vietnam 20 miles south of Cam Ranh Bay, military sources said.

They said the only effective government units in the Nha Trang area were rangers involved in heavy fighting north of the city, near Duc My training centre and the town of Ninh Hoa.

Nha Trang the 15th provincial capital lost to the Communists, who completely control all of 13 provinces and more than half of South Vietnam's territory.

There was no indication how many Americans from the U.S. consulate in Nha Trang were in the city when the Communists moved in.

Lon Nol Flies Off

Times News Services

PHNOM PENH — With insurgent shells exploding only 100 yards from his plane, Cambodian President Lon Nol left his country today in a move to pave the way for peace talks with the Communist-led rebels.

He stopped briefly in Thailand, then flew to the Indonesian capital of Jakarta in a jet belonging to the state-owned Indonesian oil corporation, Pertamina.

After an hour's stay at Jakarta airport, he and his entourage took off for the Indonesian island of Bali accompanied by Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik.

Lon Nol will spend the next 10 days relaxing in a mountain-top summer palace on Bali, then continue on to the United States.

At the same time, former Cambodian president Cheng Heng arrived in Paris and said he hopes for a quick ceasefire in his homeland.

Both Cheng Heng and Lon Nol were marked for death by the Cambodian rebels.

As he left, possibly never to return, Cambodian military commanders moved troops to block breaches in the city's defence line to keep Khmer Rouge rebels from breaking through. The rebels are within five miles of the capital.

Before he left, Lon Nol reviewed a guard of honor drawn up in the palace courtyard and bowed with clasped hands in a Buddhist tribute before the Cambodian flag, tears in his eyes.

The only chance the Phnom Penh regime has of hanging on long enough to convince the Communists there is some good reason to negotiate is if the U.S. Congress votes next week to continue military aid to Cambodia until the end of the fiscal year which ends June 30.

But the combination of Lon Nol's departure and a negative congressional vote could be devastating.

At that point, most of the handful of diplomatic observers remaining in here believe that the Cambodian army would simply dissolve.

Bay Clerks File Notice Of Strike

Strike notice has been served on the Victoria Hudson's Bay Co. store by the Retail Clerks union, after about a month of negotiations failed to achieve a settlement.

But another negotiating meeting is scheduled for later this week and union business representative John Nicol said today the union is "proceeding to do what we can do to get a contract for them."

UVic Bird Census to Check If Starlings a Hazard Here

By HAROLD HOSFORD

On the assumption that you can't solve a problem without first knowing how big it is, students at the University of Victoria are counting Victoria's starlings.

Putting theory into practice, UVic's wildlife management class, under Allan Brooks, has begun to monitor the fluctuations in our starling population. The census involves counting the birds at four winter roosts in the city, the Bay Street and Johnston Street Bridges, Ogden Point and the Empress Hotel.

Starlings roosting, literally by the millions, near some communities in the United States, pose a twofold threat to people living nearby; the birds not only destroy crops but the accumulated filth at their roosts can become a health hazard.

While still far from the problem they are in the southern and eastern United States, the phenomenal spread of these European immigrants across this continent in less than a century and their prodigious reproductive capability, demands that the Victoria populations be watched closely.

According to Wayne Campbell, biologist with the Provincial Museum and coordinator of the Victoria project, the study will follow the pattern of one under way in Vancouver where fall roosts of starlings containing up to 200,000 birds have been recorded.

Begun in January, and expected to continue for several years, the Victoria study is designed to reveal where and in what numbers starlings roost here, how the use of these roosts fluctuates throughout the year, and the origins of the birds using the roosts.

Slow Change

If Victoria's starlings follow the patterns of their brothers in Vancouver they will reach their greatest concentrations in the early fall before dropping to a basic wintering population by December.

A slow change in the composition of the roosts begins in late winter with arrivals from California and Oregon and departures for the north and east. Some of Vancouver's wintering starlings nest in northern B.C. and Alberta.

The key to the problem, according to Wayne Campbell, is to find all the roosts in this area and put people to work keeping a year-round check on their use—a task beyond the present 23-member wildlife management class.

But Campbell says that with help from the public they might just pull it off. Victorians who know of starling roosts, and those who might be interested in spending one evening a week counting starlings, are needed. If any readers fall into either of these categories, contact Wayne Campbell at the Provincial Museum, 387-3649.

The students currently involved in the count see a slightly different problem. Elizabeth Black, a first-year student at UVic, who shares the count at the southwest corner of the Empress Hotel with Jan Newman and Jan Beise, says counting the flocks of swirling and milling birds can be trying.

According to Elizabeth, more than 3,000 starlings drop in every evening to become unpaying and not-so-welcome guests at the hotel. And they all arrive and take their places in less than an hour.

The task of counting this evening rush would be much easier, says Elizabeth, if the birds would simply arrive and take their places in the roost on a first-come, first-served basis. But they don't. They appear in flocks of up to a hundred, settle on the roofs of nearby buildings or in nearby trees, and from there sometimes make several passes at the roosting vines before settling down. The resulting melee is a census-taker's nightmare.

But the work has its rewards. Richard Farrell, a Trinidadian who now calls Victoria home and who is responsible for the Bay Street bridge count, finds that after awhile you get to know some of the birds individually. The bridge roost is much smaller than the Empress roost.

Known on Sight

Farrell now knows several of his birds on sight, and one, with a lame leg which hangs down while the bird is in flight, is always the first one into the roost under the bridge.

But all the students agree that a practical project such as this is more satisfying than theoretical book problems. And the practical results of this study may be that Victoria will be able to get the measure of her starlings before they get the measure of her.

Terrorist Stuttgart Plans Paired

WASHINGTON, (Reuter) — Japanese terrorists are planning an attack on Stuttgart airport in West Germany in an attempt to disrupt the forthcoming trials of members of the militant Baadar Meinhoff gang, a secret United States government report shows.

In a confidential memorandum dated Feb. 11 and made available to Reuter Monday by a member of the House of Representatives, security agents of the Federal Aviation Administration said a 22-member Japanese terrorist squad was heading for West Germany with plans either to hijack a plane at Stuttgart or to attack the airport itself.

The memorandum did not say when the terrorists were expected in West Germany or when the expected attack of hijacking was to take place.

Members of the militant urban guerrilla West German group are expected to be tried for a wave of bombings throughout that country, including one at a U.S. military base in Frankfurt several years ago.

The FAA memorandum was made available to Reuter by Representative John Murphy who charged the FAA with throwing a veil of secrecy over terrorist activities.

The New York Democrat also said the FAA's practice of keeping confidential its reports on security at major international airports, hindered efforts to make the airports more secure.

TOP CARAT PIZZA

The gems included more than 3,000 diamonds, sapphires, rubies and emeralds from Thailand and India. A seven-carat ruby worth $15,000 was the most-expensive single stone, authorities said.

The gems were in a small bag, noticed on the table at the Grizzly Bear Pizza Parlor by two customers. The unidentified customers turned the bag over to Chris Brower, 19, assistant manager of the establishment, who notified police.

FBI agents in Twin Falls and New York helped locate the gem company that owned the gems.

Police refused to disclose the identieis of the courier or the company because of security reasons. The incident happened last week but police did not release the details until Monday.

Angola Friction Kills 200

LISBON (Reuter) — At least 200 persons were killed last week in fighting between rival African nationalist groups in the former Portuguese territory of Angola, the leader of one of the groups said Monday.

Agostinho Neto, chairman of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), accused the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA) of massacring civilians in the Angolan capital of Luanda.

"I do not know if all the corpses have been found or not," he told reporters. "But I know that there were about 200 bodies in the morgues of Luanda alone."

Neto's organization shares power in Angola's transitional government with Portuguese representatives, the FNLA and the National Union for the total Independence of Angola (UNITA).

He accused the Zaire-backed FNLA, ideologically opposed to his own Marxist movement, of joining forces with reactionary whites in concerted attacks against MPLA troops and civilians in Luanda.

He also accused Portuguese authorities in Angola of taking an attitude of criminal passivity toward the violence. Portugal still has 25,000 troops in Angola.

He met Portuguese Prime Minister Vasco Gonclaves for an hour during his stopover here and also made a courtesy visit to President Francisco da Costa Gomes.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Choices for Channel 10

The question of who will be awarded the last remaining Very High Frequency (VHF) television channel in this area is a matter of much public debate as the April 22 date for Canadian Radio-Television Commission hearings in Vancouver approaches. Ottawa's decision not to reserve Channel 10 for either the CBC or a provincial educational service is at the bottom of the current furore. Yet neither the B.C. government nor the CBC bothered to formally apply for the last available VHF channel, betraying a naive complacency unworthy of either public body.

What the federal cabinet has done is drop a sticky package into the CRTC's lap. Because of the Ottawa decision not to reserve Channel 10 — the only fair alternative pending the hearings — the commission will only deal with four private applications. Three of the applications concern Channel 10; a fourth concerns Ultra High Frequency (UHF) channel 26 in Vancouver. This does not mean that the CBC and a proposed provincial educational television station are out in the cold. Both have the option to actively oppose the four private applications — something the B.C. government has promised to do.

Under these circumstances the CRTC would probably call for new applications and hold another round of hearings. In the past the commission has shown an open mind and a rare sensitivity to regional needs. Two years ago it rejected CBC and private applications for Channel 10 because promised service was not up to established standards. And that is the nub of the matter: what kind of television do we want?

Three Canadian and five American commercial stations beam into this area at present. Awarding Channel 10 to a commercial consortium would be redundant. It would simply mean more of the same, 12 minutes of commercials each hour, violent American serials and the lowest common denominator of what passes for entertainment. To award the last VHF channel in this area to private enterprise would be a grave error.

The CBC alternative, which Communications Minister Gerard Pelltier favors is a better idea. It would provide a forum for local artists, including the Victoria symphony, and ensure much better coverage of the provincial legislature, not to mention the possibility of more jobs in this area. But a danger exists that a CBC outlet here would duplicate coverage provided by CBC Vancouver's Channel 2. If the CBC is awarded Channel 10 the CRTC should ensure that it is truly a local station, not a facsimile of the Vancouver operation. Seeing that its own attempts to use the contentious channel as the base for an ETV network are dwindling, the provincial government also favors the CBC choice, providing it guarantees access to a provincial educational television system during prime time. Without any details available, this choice sounds like a cumbersome hybrid.

There is also much to be said for awarding Channel 10 to a provincial educational network. Both Alberta and Ontario have functioning ETV networks that appear to have worked out well.

British Columbians have appreciated this type of television on Seattle's Channel 9. A local operation of this nature would be more relevant to provincial and Canadian needs in general. As to political interference from a propaganda-minded government, it is a myth.

Under federal guidelines an educational communications authority composed of civil servants must be set up. If a channel is awarded, an independent corporation must be formed at arms length from the government. No politicians can be involved in directing policy or operations of the eventual setup. If such interference occurred the CRTC would probably revoke the licence immediately.

While either a CBC or provincial ETV station would serve local interests best, on balance the provincial alternative offers the best choice.

It would in no way duplicate CBC's Vancouver operation, yet it could still provide a forum for such things as the Victoria symphony and other creative talent — perhaps on a more regular basis than the CBC, which is forced to carry all kinds of network shows. It would also give local employment. Provincial Transport Minister Robert Strachan has said there would not be a large staff of civil servants because most talent would be employed on a contract basis.

The one CBC advantage is a feeling that British Columbia's capital deserves a national network outlet that could provide better provincial political coverage. Pros and cons exist in both choices. But one thing is clear: Channel 10 should not be awarded to another commercial facsimile.

BRUCE HUTCHISON

Vague Hints, Painful Murmurs

A Canadian prime minister not only shapes the policy of government with many secret powers unmentioned in the constitution, he is also a kind of human thermometer recording the nation's current temperature and a barometer forecasting its changes of mental climate. Thus viewed, Pierre Trudeau's latest meditations must be taken as clear storm signals. The national thermometer has dropped already on the eve of spring. The barometer is falling.

In themselves, the fluctuations of the prime minister's mind are remarkable, a zig-zag line across the meteorological graph. Less than a year ago, for example, he was promising, light-heartedly, to wrestle inflation into the ground, rejecting any thought of economic controls and saying that increased wages were not a cause of increased prices. No storm signals flew before last July's election. The barometer was still rising.

But recently in Montreal, he warned his Liberal party that everyone must accept lower wages so that more people could find jobs and later, in London, suggested that it might be necessary to curb the monopoly power of the labor unions. He saw "violence coming to our land . . . the civil climate beginning to weaken," the Western world likely to become poorer in its energy crisis and, lacking a "miracle solution," tens of millions of children starving to death.

Pretty Dismal

It has been a long journey for him in a single year, an almost circular journey of deepening disillusionment, a journey common to Canadian prime ministers. At some point all of them entered their time of troubles and obviously Trudeau has entered his. The carefree days of 1968, the brief Trudeaumania, the imagined Just Society of rising wealth and many other brave hopes are left far behind. Those first careless raptures cannot be recovered but the facts can be faced.

If Trudeau's economic record is, in fact, pretty dismal like the dismal science itself, he thinks, in non-economic and more important terms, as well as any contemporary statesman and better than most. No one reads his books, speeches and revealing off-hand asides without realizing the spacious and subtle quality of daring, experimental mind, even though he refuses to reveal the whole of it, holding some of the contents in reserve for emergency use as required — a lonely man by nature, a public man by chance, almost by accident.

His mercurial moods, ranging from sunshine to hurricane, would be his business alone if they did not involve everybody else in Canada but of course they do. No Canadian escapes the prime minister any more than he can escape the nation's collective mood. He and the people, whether they like it or not, live in symbiosis, with affection or antipathy on both sides.

These, admittedly, are mere platitudes but worth considering when he and the nation jointly enter a time of troubles. For surely something has gone wrong in the symbiotic national life, the daily commerce between leader and led.

PIERRE TRUDEAU
. . . spacious and subtle mind

The prime minister miscalculated events as late as six months ago. Now, after a curious time lag, he is trying desperately to catch up with them and, if possible, to get ahead. Such, it seems to a remote observer, must be the real purpose of his recent grim warnings to the public. Or is it the other way around? Has the nation's mind, the silent majority, got ahead of Trudeau and awaits his delayed arrival at the facts? Nice questions but unanswerable.

As a speculative philosopher, he repeated on television the other day what he wrote earlier in his famous book—that "the only constant factor to be found in my thinking over the years has been opposition to accepted opinions." As prime minister he cannot expect these opinions to change suddenly and automatically just because he opposes and asks them to change. In the mental process, like the economic, there is always a time-lag and it represents the immediate problem of the practical politician.

He has to lead public opinion, bring it and himself up to date, without losing contact. That is the supreme act of leadership in a democracy, an art which, after the easy times, Trudeau has yet to master. All his predecessors went through the same test and in several cases it broke their spirits and their health.

Where Are Values?

It is not breaking Trudeau. Apparently, the bitter medicine of unforeseen facts is revitalizing him. At least it has compelled him, for the first time, to level with the public and, by inference, to admit his own miscalculations. But the true test of man and nation has only begun. If he is right in his revised calculation of the world's future, Canada's included, then the test will be harder than he, or the public, had expected up to now.

As he puts it, modern society is losing its old values and searching for new ones in another moral interregnum like those that afflicted and sometimes destroyed the great societies of the past. Yes, but where are the new values to be found?

Trudeau does not say because, being human, he does not know. All he knows is that everything, everywhere, is changing to ends unknowable. By the chances of politics he happens to preside, in one country, over a vast and wrenching transformation. How successfully will he perform a task literally unique in mankind's experience? He, and we, cannot know that either.

We can be sure, however, that events, economic, social and moral, are moving very fast on the flood which leads to fortune or to miseries. We must take the current where it serves or lose our ventures. This, I assume, is what Trudeau has been telling us in vague hints and painful murmurings. No doubt he will tell us more when he learns more himself. From the leader, and from the led, we have much to hear yet.

Less Control

According to a news report in the Victoria Times of March 15, the teachers from Oak Bay senior secondary school have asked the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association to propose government controls over wages, prices, profits, dividends, interest and rents to the B.C. Teachers Federation. The BCTF is being requested to urge the provincial and federal governments to impose these controls over our lives. Do the teachers also have in mind an agency to control the spending by those governments?

And there's the crunch—government spending, the reason we have taxes. In the last few years, spending by both levels of government has increased far beyond the demands of labor and the price of goods in order to support their own bureaucracies and their wild and extravagant schemes of welfare, foreign aid and subsidies. Billions and billions of dollars added to the list of expenses of income-earning Canadians. Increasing taxation is a major contributor to inflation. The teachers must realize that if controls are applied to one side of the ledger then they must also be applied to the other side as well.

Let the teachers and all others concerned with our present economic malaise attempt to convince our present federal MPs, provincial MLAs and all members of opposition parties that what we really require is less government control of our affairs, not more! Each time we relinquish one more item of control from our own responsibility to that of the government we are telling the government, "we want you, big brother, to be responsible for us, not to us." Look before you leap, teachers! — W. Baldwin, 250 Douglas Street.

Illegal Acts

I wonder why the authorities have taken so long to take action for what, in my opinion, are illegal actions which have been committed by members of the CUPE.

It appears to me that those persons who have committed trespass, obstruction and interference should, after warning and not desisting, have been arrested.

I also wonder why more publicity has not been given to illegal acts. — D. A. D., Victoria.

Accept Commission

The general public and in particular parents of school aged children must now recognize that the school board (District 61), the municipalities and the regional board are not bargaining in good faith in the current CUPE dispute.

The following facts will support this:

● The present situation with regard to maintenance staff at the school board did not happen overnight. Two years ago we were faced with a similar situation and the climate created by certain members of the school board administrative staff does not appear to have changed.

● The municipalities and the regional district began this confrontation with CUPE by locking out their employees. (The majority of people out of work are locked out, not on strike.) This is a fact most members of the general public don't seem to understand.

● CUPE then retaliated by striking the schools. (An action I feel has solved nothing and weakened public support for the employees' position.) It also set the scene for confrontation between teachers and CUPE — an unfortunate situation for which the school board can take full credit.

● The school board first cut school hours to one hour a day and only because of public pressure lengthened the school day. This was obviously a political move as schools could have been left open all day until heat was depleted and/or sanitary conditions became a health hazard.

● Parents who are cleaning in the schools have been used by the school board and instead of helping to end the conflict are actually helping to prolong the situation. I most definitely do not believe the school board is doing its duty by using parents to complicate an already negative situation.

● Throughout this whole unfortunate dispute both the press and management spokesmen have ignored the obvious fact that CUPE workers are also taxpayers and parents as well as being employees. They have been inconvenienced not only in the same ways as we the general public but have been without wages to support their families as well.

● Last but not least Labor Minister Bill King along with Education Minister Eileen Dailly proposed the appointment of an industrial inquiry commissioner. This was accepted by CUPE but was turned down by the municipalities, the regional district and the school board. This as least would have obtained a third party opinion and would not be binding so would allow flexibility.

I strongly urge the school board, the municipalities and the regional board to start looking for solutions to end this dispute and suggest that a first step would be to accept the industrial commissioner in an attitude of trust and good faith. — Carol M. Pickup, 977 Lovat Avenue.

Killing Reflection

If society views killing in the form of capital punishment a solution to problems, we can expect the individual to reflect this attitude and express his ultimate frustration through murder. — Bruce Pendergast, 350 Benjamin Road.

Shareholders Beware

I have just read the article entitled Tax Change Urged to Hike Dividends in the Times March 27.

Let all minority shareholders beware! In fact let all shareholders beware.

Mr. Morgan would appear to have overlooked the income tax of the shareholder. A 20 per cent credit on dividends to Canadian taxpayers from Canadian corporations was instituted many years ago to eliminate or at least greatly reduce the double taxation to which shareholders had been subject hitherto. The dividends were taxed at the source as part of the corporation's taxable income. Should such a change as Mr. Morgan suggests be made then the federal government would be able to claim that dividends were no longer being taxed at the source hence no double taxation and no need for the 29 per cent tax credit to be maintained.

As a pensioner since before the days of the Canada Pension Plan I depend on interest from investments in the form of bond interest and stock dividends for a substantial part of my income. Based on my 1974 income tax return, I have calculated that my total dividend income would have to increase about 25 per cent in order to maintain my net income after taxes at its present level.

The dividend dollar is no different from the wage dollar as far as the effect of inflation is concerned.

Perhaps Mr. Morgan has already cleared this angle with Mr. Turner, in which case my apologies to him. — J. Cuthell, 1052 Newport Avenue.

A. Y. Jackson

May I draw to the attention of your readers the remarkable exhibition of paintings by A. Y. Jackson being shown at present at the Maritime Museum in Bastion Square.

These represent the early work of the founder of the Group of Seven and for this reason alone are of immense interest to professional and amateur painters. Sir Max Aitken, later Lord Beaverbrook, engaged Private Alexander Young Jackson to be one of the artists to record Canada's part in the First World War. The wisdom of his confidence in the young painter is evident in this present display.

In his canvases, A. Y. Jackson recreates the scarred and cratered countryside of France where so many of his comrades-in-arms shed their blood. Although most of the scenes depict the Ypres or Vimy Ridge areas, they show great variety. From scenes of universal destruction Jackson has found a way to show us a weird beauty. In his smaller canvases especially he catches the essence of French provincial architecture.

There are too many striking subjects to mention, but A Screened Road and The Pimple, Evening to me seemed particularly fine.

No patriotic citizen should miss this exhibition. It will be at the Maritime Museum until April 27. — Mrs. B. P. Allard, 919 Vancouver Street.

Senate Conflict

At times, I despair of the biased attitude of the press and the other news media and then when I read an editorial which appeared in the Victoria Times, Senate Conflict of Interest, I take hope for the future. Of course your article is 100 per cent correct but this is only one case in which the members of the nominated Senate should not be eligible to pass judgement on such matters as amendments to the banking act as the majority of the Senate members of the banking committee are either directors of one of our banks or other financial institutions. In my view, this should disqualify them from passing judgment on such changes as there is obviously a conflict of interest.

The Senate should be abolished or reformed on an electoral basis with an equal number of senators from each of the 10 provinces. Only in this way will the Senate be a truly effectual body in a democratic form of government of which we boast. — M. P. B. Wrixon, 301-1701 Cedar Hill X Road.

Not Subjects

May I have the privilege of providing an answer for Mrs. Derbyshire, Ensign Gold letter in the Times, March 25.

If, as Mrs. Derbyshire stated, everybody was in favor of that pseudo-Canadian red ensign, there would never have been any change. However, it was changed and as a many-generation Canadian, like many thousands of others, I thank God for that.

Mrs. Derbyshire seems to have very little value for a British monarchy proclamation — regardless of the fact I am not a monarchy enthusiast though one can respect its office in its home country.

Another point in her letter, Mrs. Derbyshire completely disregards the British government's decree by royal assent to our Canadian independence, free from any manner of British control.

Mrs. Derbyshire and her thousands of cohorts sidestep the issue that Canadians are no longer British subjects though the official date is June 26, 1975. The word "subject" in relation to people is obnoxious to me — a Canadian citizen yes. — Len Skelton, 4068 Grange Road.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of April 4, 1915

LONDON — The war on alcohol, an outcome of the labor situation in Great Britain, has definitely taken precedence over the much-talked-of "spring advance in the west," the reason being that the problem of ammunition has become more pressing than that of recruiting. The pronouncements of cabinet ministers and the letter of King George V on the question of temperance are intended to pave the way, and sound public sentiment preparatory to the shutting off absolutely of drink throughout the country except on docotors' prescriptions.

From Alberta With Love—and Other April Fools

April Fools' Day, or All Fools' Day, named from the custom of playing practical jokes or sending friends on fools' errands. It is a season when all people, even the most dignified, are given an excuse to play the fool.

Now read on.

The Rt. Hon. Pierre Elliot Trudeau, M.P. Prime minister of Canada House of Commons, Ottawa.

My dear Prime Minister,

Thank you for your cordial letter of March 29, congratulating my colleagues and myself on the victory of our Party in the Provincial Election last week. As you rightly say, it is a victory not only for the Conservative Party in Alberta but for all Canadians who cherish the unity and prosperity of their country.

As our tangible expression of Alberta's devotion to that ideal, my Cabinet has just unanimously approved my proposal that, commencing May 1, 1985, all revenues derived from petroleum resources extracted in this Province will be placed in a special fund, to be called the Alberta Canadian Development Aid (ACDA) Fund, to be disposed of by the Federal Government for such purposes as that Government deems fit.

We believe that Alberta's oil belongs to all Canadians equally, and not exclusively to the people of this Province. It is our hope that a significant proportion of the many hundreds of millions of dollars that will not be paid annually to the Federal Treasury will be spent in those parts of Canada, not excepting Ontario, which have been less favored by Nature than our own beautiful and bounteous Alberta.

With warm personal regards, in which my colleagues and the people of this province join, I am

Yours most sincerely,
PETER LOUGHEED

Chairman
The Nobel Prize Committee
Oslo, Norway
Your Excellency,

After deep and painful reflection, I have decided that I can no longer in good conscience maintain the pretence that my diplomatic efforts in Paris during 1972 and 1973 contributed to the building of a lasting peace in South-East Asia.

Much as I appreciate the honor conferred upon me and my country, the United States, by your Committee in selecting me as co-recipient of the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1973, it has become clear that my acceptance of this award was premature, if not in unseemly haste.

I ought to have followed the example of my colleague from North Vietnam, Le Duc Tho, in refusing to receive the award until such time as the people of that unhappy area are able at long last to live their lives free from danger, want and fear.

In the hope that it may not even now be tob late to make amends for a precipitate acceptance of this high honor, I return herewith the scroll of citation with which I was presented at Oslo two years ago. I also enclose the sum of $29,000 representing my share of the award with accrued interest.

Yours faithfully,

Dear Mummy and Daddy,

I'm sending this to dad's paper because you've moved from Beverly Hills but I don't know where.

I'm tired of running away. When you get this I'll have given myself up.

It's not what I did that tortures me — that silly bank thing — it's all those terrible names I called you. "The pig Hearst" — Daddy, I'm so sorry. And Steve, too. Tell him I still love him. You know how much I love both of you.

My lecture agent tells me that when I get out on parole I can easily make enough money to pay the Hearst Foundation back for all that food they gave away. He says there's already an invitation from a place called the University of Guelph—have you heard of it?

Your prodigal and penitent

PATTY

Dear Art,

A note to let you know how delighted all of us at Headquarters are by the publicity the media gave last week to your fine manual on interrogation methods.

As Commissioner I've always maintained that the more the public knows about how our Force operates, the better will be our image and the greater the support for our activities. I've often said that it's not that we Mounties always get our man that counts, it's how we're seen to get our man.

I just wish that the papers had printed fuller extracts from your manual, the better to convey the sheer bravura of its style. "I bet somebody has to wipe your rear end for you every time you have to go to the can" — what an ear for dialogue you have.

You'll be pleased to know that Mr. Trudeau phoned me this morning — said he was "tickled pink" at your reference to him: A chicken for every pot, or as our esteemed Prime Minister puts it, some pot for every chicken." Ha ha. There's always room for a little humor, even in our instructional materials.

Keep up the good work, Art, and you'll be Commissioner in my place some day.

All the best,
MAURICE NADON

Exhaustion Descends On Hanoi

By MARK GAYN

A fortnight or so ago, the National Assembly met in Hanoi to look at the true state of North Viet Nam, to see what needs to be done, and to issue marching orders.

It was an extraordinary session. For, with a candor lacking in both Peking and Moscow in recent years, the men in Hanoi bared it all — the wreckage, the errors, the damage that the decades of bloodletting and superhuman effort have done to morale. Even the toughest men at the assembly must have thought, at one point or another, that things could hardly be more desperate.

An outsider watching the proceedings was struck by a number of things. Hanoi is likely to be the eventual victor in the titanic contest for Indo-China, but right now it looks more like a war casualty. The people of North Viet Nam have reached the point of physical and nervous exhaustion where they can hardly hear their leaders' pleas and commands.

And not least important, just when North Viet Nam so desperately needs help from its two powerful allies, China and the Soviet Union, it is not really getting much. It may well be that Hanoi itself does not want to take more aid than it absolutely must. Or, for reasons still unknown to us, these two giants have decided to limit the assistance. But, in fact, in this year of distress, the West will be providing more assistance to, say, Bangladesh than Moscow and Peking will be giving to Hanoi.

For all its disclaimers, of course, Hanoi is not at peace. Tens of thousands of its men are fighting in the south, and a tremendous logistic effort has to be put into providing them with guns, ammo, food and all else that keeps an army moving.

But the war apart, the assembly still was told of grandiose plans — industry to raise its output this year by 28 per cent, coal mines to produce 39 per cent more than last year, a steel plant and fertilizer works and dams and power plants to be completed before New Year's Day.

And if this is not enough, more than a third of a million adults will be moved to the wasteland and the mountains to break new fields, to raise sheep and pigs, and to plant more forests.

One might have expected slogans, pledges and at least simulated enthusiasm. But the speeches at the assembly reflected nothing so much as utter weariness and disorganization. Thus, a blunt report by the country's chief planner Le Thanh Nghi:

"The procedures for managing state and economic affairs have not been improved . . . The performance of many enterprises has been mediocre. Their work efficiency has been low. They have utilized manpower and equipment wastefully . . .

"There are violations of the laws, misappropriation of state property, red tape, lack of democracy, rightist thoughts in the management and in the maintenance of social order and security . . ."

But even this picture was relatively rosy. The proceedings showed that the workers and the civil servants in the cities simply do not get enough to eat.

Complaints of food shortages at the canteen came coupled with stories of how the producers have been funnelling grain and eggs and chickens into the black market.

But even in the face of all this, it would be dangerous to sell Hanoi short. For the regime that has been able to mobilize and control and exact sacrifices from four successive generations of people has not lost its skills or its inflexible will.

Life in North Viet Nam will be incredibly harsh for many years to come. But I, for one, still expect Hanoi to become the capital of what will be the third most powerful and most militant Communist state in the world.

Immigrant Ghettos Rare in Rural Quebec

By Sheila Arnopoulos
Montreal Star

Over the past six or seven years there has been a lot of concern about xenophobia among Quebecers. French-Canadians, we have been told, are insular and don't like foreigners.

If French-Canadian xenophobia exists, perhaps it is confined to Montreal, where nationalist sentiments are stong and where the assimilation of immigrants to the anglophone community has become a thorny issue.

It is certainly not evident in the small towns and cities of the province.

Over the past two weeks I have been touring the Quebec countryside attending meetings sponsored by immigration officials on the federal green paper on immigration policy options. In places such as Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Sept-Iles, Trois-Rivieres, and Louiseville, Quebecers showed they welcome immigrants with open arms.

"Immigrants enjoy living here," a Spanish grocer told me at Sept-Iles meeting. "Accepted? Of course, I'm a member of our local Gouverneurs Richelieu club."

In Quebec City, the response from Italians was the same. "Most of our kids go to French schools . . . we intermarry . . . there's no problem," said Pietro Volloni.

In Sherbrooke a young Haitian singer told me she prefers Sherbrooke to Montreal "because the people are friendlier," adding that she "always gets an enthusiastic response and warm welcome" when she sings in Quebec's small towns.

Perhaps the best example of concern for immigrants by French-Canadians came from residents of Trois-Rivieres and neighboring Louiseville.

Priests, lawyers, teachers, service associations, unions, even the Trois-Rivieres city council, have taken a strong stand in favor of the 37 Spanish-speaking Colombian textile workers in Louiseville.

The Colombian workers were recruited by Louseville textile company during the fall of 1973 in South America to meet a sudden labor shortage.

They entered with work permits, which can be quickly issued, rather than with landed immigrant visas, which require months of processing. According to immigration regulations, however, work permit holders cannot apply for landed status in Canada and must eventually return home.

Recently the Colombians were laid off because of slack business and told they would have to leave the country. A number who brought their families are now claiming they didn't realize they would not be able to stay permanently and are asking for landed status.

"When the Colombians first came to Louiseville, which has a population of only 2,000, people found them a little strange," a Trois-Rivieres priest told me. "But they soon became very much part of the town. When they were threatened with deportation everyone rallied to their support."

In Montreal, where "ghettos" shut off one group from another, many Quebecers are suspicious of immigrants. Newcomers are seen as competitors for jobs and a threat to the French language and community.

However, in the small towns and cities, where immigrants are more fully integrated into community life, people seem more sensitive to the problems of newcomers.

At immigration meetings, participants told officials that immigrants were not being treated with sufficient respect.

In Sept-Iles and Trois-Rivieres, for example, Quebecers criticized the green paper for looking upon immigrants as "commodities."

"All we seem interested in is whether immigrants will serve our 'national interest' . . . whether they meet our manpower needs," said a woman from Sept-Iles.

In this connection, many attacked our present "work permit" system which they said was "insensitive to the needs of foreign workers."

Some commented that it was "inhuman" and "callous" to import workers simply to fill temporary labor shortages and then to send them home "when it suits us."

A number worried that "foreign workers" were being used as "cheap labor" brought in for low-paying or unpleasant jobs that Canadians refuse.

Jean Matteau, a Trois-Rivieres priest, felt that future immigration policy should be re-oriented to a "far more humanitarian focus." He suggested that Canada institute a special program to bring in disadvantaged immigrants.

MOTHERHOOD NOT FIT TO BE SEEN?

By HARRY BRUCE

Kelly is 19. She is strong, intelligent and pretty brave. She walks as gracefully as a gull flies and, right now, she's loping along beautifully, southbound on Yonge St. in downtown Toronto, and her infant son George is asleep in the papoose on her back.

The day is warm, the breeze moves her hair. She is about to meet a dear friend from Nova Scotia for the first time since last summer. They'll have lunch together, and Kelly will show off George.

As Kelly passes an establishment called The Gamecock, a man's voice entreats her "to thrill to the finest stag sex fillums available in Toronto," coming to her direct from 42nd St., New York, and Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, "the sex capitals of the world."

The voice is a recording and, over and over again, it drones, "Special rates for ladies and senior citizens . . . leaving absolutely nothing to the imagination . . . two dollars any time . . . low, low price . . . Or if you're in the mood for a little physical stimulation . . . nude, topless or reverse massage . . . The price you pay for the movie is deductible from the rub as an added bonus to you . . ."

Kelly strides south.

She passes Escapade Topless Body Rub, which offers its attentions in an "air-conditioned Polynesian Setting."

She passes the Oasis Health Club (body rub by nude attendants) and Spot 580 ($5 for "all types of sessions"), and a Taste of Honey (nude body rub, nude photography, and Sodom Cinema).

She also passes the Nights of Paris Health Studio Club for Men; and Baby Blue Body Rub; and a door up a lane offering entry to "Private Burlesque"; and Her Place. Her Place is "a place for relaxation, Body Photo, Nude Body Rub, Roman Bath, Sauna" and, just for kicks, The Pulsation Theatre.

Kelly walks right on by the Pleasure Palace ("Give our girls a rub"); the French Connection ("Where others end oui begin"); an institution that offers a "nude body rub special this week," as though it were pushing pork loins; and a movie promising insight into "the bizarre rituals of forbidden desire on the Island of the Possessed."

She eschews Peeparama and the Play Dance Club, where men pay for the joys of dancing with nude or topless women. She skips the Bermuda Tavern where Joanne, Susanne, Doris and Jeanne toplessly jiggle away the days and nights of their lives.

And she leaves in George's gurgling wake not only Relaxation Plus (body painting and "the ultimate in relaxation") but also Delilah's Den with its "encounter sessions," its 40 sex movies with private booths, and its appeal for help. "Attractive attendants wanted. Apply within."

She passes up the movie Tobacco Roody ("He conquered the hills! . . . Piece by Piece"). A place called Skin Deep trumpets a truly astounding program: "dangling conversations," naked snooker, naked checkers and naked ping pong (with girls from China?). None of this appeals to Kelly. She doesn't even want a topless girl to shine her hiking boots.

She reaches the restaurant. It is below yet another, ahem, "health studio." At night in the restaurant girls with bare breasts bounce around on a stage for the titillation of men with money.

Kelly and her friend embrace. They have a wonderful lunch together. George cries. Kelly smiles and, because she has never been one to worry much about social conventions, she gives him her left breast.

"Good heavens!" the headwaiter says. "You can't do that in here. We run a respectable dining room. If you insist on doing that sort of thing, you'll have to use the ladies' washroom."

And Kelly, please close the door. We now George will be okay, but you wouldn't want to put anyone else off his feed, would you now?

Canadian Pacific Now Top Shareholder for M-B

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd., which in 1974 acquired control of The Algoma Steel Corporation, has become the largest single shareholder of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

The CPI annual report, released this week, shows the company paid $7.7 million for 274,800 MacMillan Bloedel shares in 1974, boosting its holdings to just over 13 per cent.

No other shareholder holds more than 10 per cent of MacMillan Bloedel shares.

Ian Sinclair, chairman and chief executive officer of CPI, has said the company will continue buying MacMillan Bloedel shares on the open market.

The company has paid a total of $82.5 million for the M-B shares but is carrying a paper loss on the purchases. Value of the shares at year's end was $61.9 million as the price fell as a result of the lumber market slump.

Net income for 1974 was $130.6 million ($2.29 per share) up from $75.1 million ($1.40) in 1973.

In June, 1974, CPI bought 2.5 million shares of Algoma Steel for $80 million to bring its holdings to 50.5 per cent.

It is a major Canadian steel producer at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and owns or controls a number of iron and coal properties to supply the plant.

Under CPI control, Algoma will increase its raw steel capacity to 4 million tons per year in 1975 from the present capacity of 2.8 million tons.

Shipments, sales and earnings of Algoma were all at record levels in 1974 as a result of a strong demand for steel.

The price of Algoma shares rose during the year and the value of CPI's holdings at year's end was $147.5 million.

Canadian Pacific continued to be the number one company in Canada engaged in gas and oil exploration in 1974, through its subsidiary PanCanadian Petroleum Ltd. of Calgary. The head office is in Palliser Square, which CPI also owns.

Canadian Pacific owns 87 per cent of the shares of PanCanadian, with a market value of $210.7 million at year's end.

The company drilled 239 successful gas wells in the Medicine Hat area in 1974 and carried out a large drilling program in the Mackenzie Delta, The Maritimes and the United States. Drilling in the U.S. included programs in Colorado, Louisiana, Montana, Wyoming, Alabama and offshore Texas.

Real estate was a major money-earner for Canadian Pacific in 1974.

In Vancouver, Canadian Pacific built and sold 179 condominiums in 1974 and opened its Arbutus Village Square, a specialty shopping mall. More condominiums are under construction.

Canadian Pacific also constructed a 400-boat marina at False Creek and is completing work on Gaslight Square, a 30-store development in Gastown.

In Alberta, Canadian Pacific is building three industrial buildings in Calgary and one in Edmonton. It also holds a one-third interest in the new Four Seasons Hotel in Calgary.

The company bought two office buildings in downtown Winnipeg for re-development projects.

In Ontario, Canadian Pacific bought two office buildings in downtown Kitchener in 1974 plus an enclosed shopping mall in Waterloo.

Two industrial buildings in Scarborough, Ont., will be completed this year, along with Peterborough Square, a large enclosed shopping mall.

In Quebec, the company is building a 15-storey office building in Montreal. The major tenant will be Canadian Pacific Telecommunications.

The company also bought a number of hotels during the year.

Canadian Pacific's largest B.C.-based company is Cominco Ltd., which reported net income of $46.6 million in 1974, up from $23.4 million a year earlier. Revenues were at a record level because of high prices for zinc, lead and fertilizers.

Cominco American Inc., a fully-owned subsidiary in the U.S. also had a profitable year as did Cominco's group of companies in Australia.

Cominco's mine in Greenland completed its first year on a successful note and construction is under way on a Cominco lead-zinc mine in northern Spain.

Other major companies owned by Canadian Pacific in B.C. are Fording Coal Ltd. and Pacific Logging.

Fording Coal showed a profit of $1.2 million in 1974, after losing $5.9 million in 1973. Pacific Logging of Victoria had net income of $3.8 million, down from $8.4 million in 1973. Poor markets for lumber was the main reason for the drop.

Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. has just over 58 million of its own shares outstanding. Of this total, 8 million are widely held and 50 million are owned by Canadian Pacific Ltd.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sun Publishing Co. Ltd. Monday reported profit of $3.7 million for the year ended Dec. 31, compared with profit of $3.6 million in the year previous.

Class A share profit was $5.04 a share compared with $4.93 while Class B profit was $4.94 a share compared with $4.83 in 1973.

The company publishes the Vancouver Sun for Pacific Press Ltd., of which it owns 50 per cent. Pacific Press Ltd. is the proprietor of the Vancouver Sun and The Province, and employs most of the personnel involved in the publication of both newspapers. It also pays all expenses and receives all revenues in respect of both newspapers.

The company's gross revenues amounted to $2.9 million from Pacific Press compared with $2.8 million in 1973 and $1.2 million from dividend and interest income compared with $915,751 in 1973.

C. B. Delbridge, Sun Publishing chairman, said in a report to shareholders that Pacific Press enjoyed a substantial increase in revenues from its newspapers due to a greater advertising lineage and rates and, to a lesser extent, circulation rate increases.

Hockey: Cougar Crash Biggest Blow of All

Leave the shop for a few days and the place blows up, or apart, depending on where you sat waiting for your ferry on the weekend.

But more especially the biggest blowup was felt in Cougar-land, the Kamloops Chiefs being two up and charging in their western division semifinal playoff in the Western Canada Hockey League against the fat-cat and highly-favored Cougars.

And if shades of the past suddenly loom dark and ugly on the horizon, what happened? Because it does seem strange that a club which dominated its division as the Cougars did this season — and what a pleasant surprise that was — could do what so far is a complete turnabout in the playdowns.

Sure, two games down in a best-of-seven series isn't the end-all, but it should make the Cougars sit up and take notice. Obviously their press clippings aren't doing a thing for them and the Chiefs don't give a hoot for them either.

Why should they care if the Cougars won a clear-cut western division title, set a league record for goals (416), own the WCHL scoring champion Mel Bridgman (157 points), finished the year with a 15-point margin over the Chiefs, and practically owned them during the year, winning seven of eight, and losing nothing in Kamloops?

Pratfalls from the Past

No, from all appearances, it is simply a case of a better disciplined club against an over-confident one, which is often the case in the playoffs. Why else would the Chiefs be on top, because the Cougars do have the better players? Or did.

So now it's up to coach Pat Ginnell to regroup his players, and start over knowing Ginnell that shouldn't prove too much of a problem, except that he's bucking junior history.

It was in 1970 that the Cougars, then a member of the B.C. Junior Hockey League, first attained prominence. They reached the finals that year, defeating Kamloops in seven games, but lost out to the league champions Vernon Essos in the final. The schedule then was a killer if memory serves its purpose. The Cougars played 13 games in 16 days that year.

Then, of course, there was that famous falling out of four years ago. That was when Eric Bishop, owner, radio announcer, enterpreneur, general manager, decided that a first-place club wasn't good enough and gave Ron Maxwell the heave-ho in mid-season.

The players rebelled, games were cancelled, lawsuits and suspensions were threatened, the Cougars went into the playoffs favored over lowly Chilliwack and promptly lost four straight. They had little heart in the proceedings and played like they didn't like Bishop either It was a cruel blow.

The next chapter, naturally, starts with the acquisition of the club from Bishop by Ginnell. That was late in 1973 and if the latter part of that season was a trial run, it indicated better was to come. And Ginnell did as he promised. He produced a winner.

Gold Mine or Pipe Dream

If he left a gold mine behind at Flin Flon — that's where the Hudson's Bay Mining and Smelting Co., is situated — he may have found another one right here. Crowds have been reasonable, if now wholly up to his expectations. And until Sunday night, at least, it appeared reasonable to suggest that the prize bauble in all the west, the Memorial Cup, might just be around the next corner.

So maybe he could cop the big bonanza, and all in one, fell swoop.

Now, of course, there is cause for re-assessment. And quickly. The Cougars can't really afford another loss to the Chiefs, particularly tonight. Because already they have lost their precious and important home-ice advantage; and with fan support an almost indispensable part of junior hockey, that factor alone could turn out to be of prime importance.

But then the Cougars have another performer they haven't used yet in these playoffs; It comes under the hairy heading of "motivation" and the Cougars shouldn't be shy in that department, because that's Ginnell's strong point. Players have been known to jump through hoops for Ginnell in the past, both here and at Flin Flon. And if he is blessed with that particular affinity for being able to get his message across when it is needed most, I imagine it will have been delivered to the Cougars by game time tonight.

Otherwise that new gold mine in the sky, the Memorial Cup, could turn out to be a pipe dream in disguise.

Matters are that crucial.

WHA Oilers Refuse To Pay Arena Rent

Times News Services

Dr. Charles Allard, chairman of the board of the World Hockey Association Edmonton Oilers, incensed that a game had to be postponed Sunday night because of dirt left on the ice surface by a rodeo, said Monday that general manager Bill Hunter has been instructed not to pay any more rent for the Edmonton Coliseum.

The game between the Oilers and San Diego Mariners was called off 2½ hours after its scheduled starting time when workmen were unable to clean and scrape the ice surface to the satisfaction of players and game officials. About 9,500 fans showed up for the game and some 6,500 were still in the Coliseum when the postponement was announced.

It would have been just as well for the Oilers if they had forgotten the whole thing. The game was rescheduled Monday night and San Diego scored a 5-2 victory.

In the only other game played, Winnipeg Jets downed Indianapolis Pacers 4-1.

Dr. Allard said that the 15,326-seat Coliseum, completed behind-schedule last November — a delay which forced the Oilers to reschedule their first half-dozen home games, is the worst-run arena he knows of.

"If the people who operate it had any of their own money invested you can be sure the arena would be run professionally."

Officials said sawdust and ice surface for the rodeo, the first to be held in the Coliseum.

dirt was laid directly on the Don McNaughton, plant superintendent for the Exhibition Association, said problems began to develop Saturday night when the rodeo contractor was slow getting the livestock out, delaying the front-end loader and trucks on hand to remove the dirt from the ice surface.

CAMPBELL ASKS TO STAY ON JOB

MONTREAL (UPI) — National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell denied Monday a report that he was about to be ousted by the NHL board of governors.

Campbell said there has been no word from team owners to substantiate a story in Maclean's magazine that he would be replaced by Toronto Maple Leafs governor Robert Sedgewick.

"As a matter of fact," Campbell said, "I've urgently fequested to stay on."

The 69-year-old Campbell, head of the NHL since 1946, said the author of the Maclean's article, New York hockey-writer Stan Fischler, has for some time been calling for the president's replacement.

"It's just a broken record," Campbell said. "I can't survive forever, so he's going to be right someday."

Sedgewick, a 52-year-old tax lawyer, was in Switzerland, but his son, Robert Jr., said Sunday there had been some discussion of his father taking over the reins of the NHL.

But he said there was "nothing definite at the moment."

DOUG PEDEN – EDITOR

Ginnell Adding Two Clippers For Third Game

Victoria Cougars' position in the Western Canada Hockey League playoffs isn't regarded as a desperate one by their coach but it's serious enough to prompt Pat Ginnell into making some changes.

Ginnell plans to make two lineup changes tonight when the Cougars and Kamloops Chiefs resume their best-of-seven Western Division semifinal series at meorial Arena.

Kamloops leads the series 2-0 after defeatint Victoria 6-4 and 4-3 in overtime at the weekend.

Goaltender Jerry Simpson and winger Kim Hilkewich, both recalled from Nanaimo Clippers after the Victoria affiliate was eliminated from the B.C. Junior League playdowns,, are scheduled for starting assignments.

Simpson will replace Cougar regular bob Leslie while Hilkewich, who led Nanaimo in goal-scoring, will start on a line with Al Hill and Eric Sanderson.,

It means one Cougar regular won't dress. Ginnell said he woiuld make a decision later today.

Kamloops, meanwhile, learned Monday the Chiefs will have to go the rest of the way without rookie Ryan Walter.

The young centre underwent surgery for torn knee ligaments suffered in Sunday's game at Kamloops. Walter, also an affiliate recalled from the BCJHL, will be sidelined for the balance of the season.

Ginnell said he regretted making lineup changes, but felt "something had to be done to get the team going again.

"Actually," he explained, "the only game I regret is the first one (6-4). I thought the team played very well in Kamloops. We deserved to win that one (4-3) Sunday. The defence played well and I can't remember Kamloops getting too many good shots on goal in the third and overtime periods.

"I've had teams in worse position than this one, and against better teams. They came back.

"By losing the first two, all it means is that we'll be down 2-1 going to Kamloops Thursday (for the fourth game)," Ginnell added.

Game time tonight is 8 o'clock.

Bridgman earned 25 points in his final six game during the regular schedule — including nine points in two games last week — to finish with a total of 157 points, well ahead of runnerup Bryan Trottier of Lethbridge Broncos. Trottier ended the season with 144 points and a league-leading 98 assists.

Goaltending champion for the 1974-75 schedule was Bill Oleschuk of Saskatoon Blades, who registered a 3.09 goals-against average and four shutouts in 43 games. Oleschuk came to Saskatoon early in the season in a deal with Lethbridge.

Gord Laxtoin of New Westminster Bruins set a WCHL record for minutes played by a goaltender by participating in all 70 Bruin games and logging 3,980 minutes in duty. The old record was held by former Bruin Terry Richardson, who played 68 games and 3,800 minutes during the 1972-73 season.

Laxton was second in shutouts to Oleschuk with three, and third in goals-against average with a 3.59 average. Leslie was second in goals-against average with a 3.48 record.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association have lost centre Terry Caffery for the rest of the season following a separated shoulder suffered in Sunday night's 4-3 victory over Toronto Toros.

The Curves Break Right For Brown

By The Associated Press

Baseball has thrown Jackie Brown a few curves over the years, and vice versa, and now things are beginning to change on both sides.

After spending most of his adult life in the minor leagues, the 31-year-old right-hander is making the most of his third shot at a major-league role.

He pitched five scoreless innings Monday in Texas Rangers' 5-1 exhibition win over Atlanta Braves, allowing only four hits. In fact, manager Billy Martin calls Brown his best pitcher this spring and that includes 25-game winner Fergie Jenkins and 19-gamer Jim Bibby.

Elsewhere, there were a number of shutouts—Kansas City Royals 3 Baltimore Orioles 0; Pittsburgh Pirates 4 New York Mets 0; Cincinnati Reds 4 Philadelphia Phillies 0; Minnesota Twins 3 New York Yankees 0; Cleveland Indians 2 Chicago Cubs 0.

Other scores: Montreal Expos 7 Houston Astros 1; St. Louis Cardinals 6 Boston Red Sox 3; Detroit Tigers 5 Chicago White Sox 3; Milwaukee Brewers 13 Oakland A's 11; San Diego Padres 10 California Angels 9.

After Brown got into 24 games with Washington Senators in 1970, he divided 1971 again between Denver and Washington but spent all of 1972 in Denver. After pitching in 19 games for Spokane, Wash., in 1973, the Rangers summoned him and he's been a big leaguer ever since.

Dennis Eckersley of Cleveland Indians, the 20-year-old Texas League's strikeout king of 1974, held the Cubs hitless in three innings, fanning three, and thoroughly impressed manager Frank Robinson.

"I've been very much impressed by Eckersley despite his limited experience," Robinson said. "It's possible, though right now I wouldn't say probable, that a kid like Eckersley could move into Tom Buskey's spot." Buskey is the Indians' short relief man.

Nelson Briles, bidding for the fourth starting spot in Kansas City's rotation, hurled six innings of three-hit shutout ball to help the Royals blank Baltimore.

Bruce Kison, Dave Giusti and Ramon Hernandez combined for a five-hitter as the Pirates blanked the Mets and Jack Billingham pitched a six-hitter as Cincinnati downed Philadelphia in a game shortened to six innings by rain. Minnesota's Joe Decker and Bill Butler blanked the Yankees on four hits.

Two doubles and a single by Terry Humphrey led Detroit over the White Sox, Chicago's sixth loss in a row.

Doubles by Larry Lintz and Pete Mackanin highlighted a five-run Montreal first inning against Houston. Montreal starter Dennis Blair allowed six hits and one run through 7 2-3 innings.

Tidrow, counted on to be New York Yankees' short right-handed reliever, was placed on the disabled list Monday, sidelining him until 10 days into the season. He suffered a broken bone in his pitching hand over the weekend.

Pagan, a native of Nipawin, Sask., made the most of the opportunity Monday despite the Yankees' 3-0 exhibition loss to the Minnesota Twins. He worked one inning in relief of Pat Dobson and retired the Twins in order, striking out one.

Pagan had been battling two left-handers, Tippy Martinez and Scott McGregor, for the last spot on manager Bill Virdon's pitching staff.

"I know they may think I'd be better off pitching regularly in Syracuse," Pagan said, "and maybe I would. But the whole thing is making the big leagues. I got a feel of it last year and I like it there. This chance could make the whole difference in my career."

Until Tidrow's injury, Pagan expected to start the season with Syracuse Chiefs of the International League, the Yankees' top farm club.

"Buffalo is close to Syracuse," he explained.

$11.8 Million Spent on Fitness, Sport

Times News Services

The fitness and amateur sport branch of the federal health department spent $11.8 million on 1973-74 programs, the branch's annual report said Monday.

Included in the figure is $8.7 million for Sport Canada and $3.1 million for Recreation Canada.

In money to Sport Canada was $2.6 million in operating grants to 59 amateur sports associations. Included were the national baseball, handball, synchronized swimming and other such organizations.

Some of those national associations also were recipients of grants totalling $901,833 for executive and technical directors.

An additional $467,833 went to the associations as their share of funds for Game Plan '76, a special program involving the Canadian Olympic Association, the Olympic Trust and the provinces, to prepare Canadian athletes for the 1976 Olympic Games.

The total of $11.8 million compares with $17.1 million budgeted for the 1974-75 fiscal year and the estimated $21.76 million for 1975-76.

The report deals with the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1974.

In auto racing, the Ontario, Calif., Motor Speedway operating company is severing its lease to run the financially-troubled $30 million speedway. Jim Cook, vice-president of the operating company, said in a letter that the firm found it impossible to operate the track at a profit. The operating company, headed by race driver Parnelli Jones and Indianapolis Speedway owner Tony Hulman, owed $196,000 in back taxes and rent but paid $119,000 after the California 500 race on March 9. A property tax bill of $119,000 comes due in mid-April, however. The board is looking for a new company to operate the track, but there are no immediate prospects. The track will hold all events now scheduled, including the next major auto race — the Grand Prix Formula 5000 Aug. 29-31.

Youthful Charge In Island Open

Strong, eager, talented and numerous enough to give the event one of its strongest-ever fields, members of the under-23 fairway set will be shooting for the top when the annual CFAX Island Open gets under way Sunday with an 18-hole qualifying round at the Gorge Vale course.

Many of them, like provincial junior champion Sandy Harper of Nanaimo, are capable of touring a course in sub-par figures, but they know they'll be in against a number of tournament-tested performers able to do just as well, perhaps better.

Foremost among the established stars are Cec Ferguson, the defending champion from Gorge, and Cowichan professional Bill Wakeham, a three-time winner of the Island crown.

Other former champions bidding for another title include professional Norm Boden, now a resident of Chemainus, and veteran Colwood amateur Lawrie Kerr.

More than 200 entries were submitted for the event this year and higher handicap golfers were casualties as officials trimmed the entry list to a limit 160 while ruling that no substitutions will be accepted.

From Sunday's round at Gorge, 32 players will qualify for match play in the Open division and another 32 will survive in the handicap section.

Tournament play will continue on successive Sundays, shifting each week to a different course in the Greater Victoria area.

More Interest in Open From Up-Island Golfers

A flock of new names show up on the entry list for the Vancouver Island Open match-play golf championship. Sandy Harper's and Ernie Tate's number among the more interesting.

Their appearance indicates that up-Island golfers, at long last, are showing greater interest in the tournament.

Special efforts in past years were made to entice Nanaimo golfers to the Island Open. One or two have come down, but this year's total represents a wholesale invasion. It's nice to see.

Tate and Norm Boden are entered from March Meadows at Honeymoon Bay, Mt. Brenton is throwing up three challengers, and seven of his members will follow Cowichan pro Bill Wakeham to play in Sunday's qualifying round at Gorge Vale.

Tate is most welcome. Grand guy and one of the west's most respected teaching professionals, he'll be able to show the "young guard" a thing or two if he qualifies for match play.

With 14 pros and the usual big turnout of young tigers, it's a good field.

Among the pros, incidentally, is Tedd Genest, now working Laurie Carroll at the Douglas Golfland driving range. Genest will represent Ardmore because the District Golf Committee's terms of reference insist all applicants "must be members in good standing of any Vancouver Island club."

Carroll has played in the past because he has retained membership at Gorge Vale.

Although he is a permanent Island resident and works the year around at the driving range, Genest would not have qualified unless he had his working arrangement with Ardmore. In exchange for affiliation, Genest will conduct clinics at Ardmore and be listed as the teaching pro.

It's legal, but the situation suggests that the District Committee should amend its terms of reference to recognize bona fide driving ranges as part of golf's family. As the regulations read now, they don't recognize driving range pros.

Genest and Carroll, as card-carrying members of the Canadian Professional Golfer's Association, are eligible to compete in virtually any open tournament in Canada.

Except the Island Open.

SHORT CHIPS: Schoolteacher Ron Gower, playing in a foursome with Bruce Gower, Bill Gostick and Bill Hummer, scored a hole-in-one Monday on Gorge Vale's 177-yard second hole . . . And can that be the same Gostick who used to chase hockey pucks around Edmonton some years ago? The District's open buttons wound up at Gorge Vale when challengers Earl Davies and Ted Sarkissian defeated Glen Meadows' Marty Richards and Brian Sluggett, one up, at Gorge Vale . . . That's it for button play until next fall . . .

Ed Byman, winner of the 1974 Mexican Open, is planning to play in the CFAX-Metro Toyota Open at Cedar Hill . . . Changes to the fourth and fifth holes will make Metchosin's course far more interesting . . . The fourth, formerly an 87-yard shot, will be longer . . . First event on the Vancouver Island Seniors Association calendar is the Nanaimo Invitational on May 9 . . . Former Uplands assistant Mike Buckley is fitting well with the pro shop staff at Shaughnessy Club in Vancouver . . . Cedar Hill members play for the Frank Gavan Memorial Trophy on Sunday . . . Because the clubhouse is locked up, they'll make up the foursomes at the first tee, starting at 9 a.m.

Perfect Sendoff For John Wooden

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Rich Washington and Dave Meyers combined for 52 points and controlled the boards Monday night to send UCLA Bruins to a 92-85 victory over Kentucky, giving John Wooden his 10th national college basketball championship in this final game as a coach.

A crowd of 15,153 saw some of the 64-year-old Wooden's own strategy pay off for his Bruins, who won the title for the eighth time in the last nine years and 10th in the last 12.

UCLA, which trailed by six points early in the first half before Wooden sent seven-foot, one-inch Ralph Drollinger into the game, went ahead 43-40 at the half and never trailed thereafter.

Drollinger added height and rebounding to the Bruins' front three, combining with the six-foot, nine-inch Washington, who had 28 points, and the six-foot, eight-inch Meyers, who had 24, as UCLA began to take control of its offensive board.

Kentucky's Kevin Grevey, who had a game-high 34 points, led a strong Wildcat comeback that pulled Kentucky within one point at 76-75. But Kentucky blew several chances to go ahead — missing a one-and-one free throw and a technical — and could not catch up.

Builders Elected To Hall of Fame

TORONTO (UPI) — New York Rangers president Bill Jennings and Frank Buckland, former president of the Ontario Hockey Association, today were named to the Hockey Hall of Fame.

The announcement of the two new inductees by Clarence Campbell, National League president and chairman of the Hall's governing committee, boosted membership in the hall to 201.

A selection committee will meet June 16 to consider players for inclusion at the Hall.

A Hall of Fame statement said Jennings, 55, was a prime force behind major expansion of the NHL in 1967 and its continued growth to the current total of 18 clubs.

Buckland, 73, of Peterborough, Ont., has retired from hockey but is now working on a history of the OHA and searching for "fresh approaches to the problems of the game."

CHEHALIS CLUB TOPS TOTEM CUP TOURNEY

Chehalis edged Shammon Braves 3-2 Sunday at Lambrick Park to capture the annual Totem Cup soccer tournament.

Ronnie Leon, top scorer in the men's division of the all-native, three-day tournament with seven goals, sparked Chehalis with two markers with Ralph Chapman adding the other Chehalis tally.

Larry Louie of the Braves was voted the outstanding player, Mount Currie the most sportsmanlike team, Tom August of the Braves the most sportsmanlike player and Joe Pelkey of Saanich United the top goalie.

Blazers One Win From B.C. Title

LANGLEY (CP) — Bellingham Blazers edged Kelowna Buckaroos 7-6 Monday night to take the fourth game of their best-of-seven British Columbia Junior Hockey League final.

First Win for U.S.

OULTON PARK, England (AP) — The United States motorcycling team scored a 278-243 upset victory over Britain in the TransAtlantic Trophy series. It was America's first victory in five years of competition for the trophy.

Playoffs Distant For NBA Favorites

By The Associated Press

When the National Basketball Association season began 5½ months ago, there seemed little doubt that three of the playoff berths would be gobbled up by Los Angeles Lakers, Milwaukee Bucks and New York Knicks.

Now there's doubt whether any of them will be around when 10 NBA teams begin slicing up the post-season pie.

The Lakers are last in the Pacific Division with a record that surpasses only that of the expansion New Orleans Jazz.

The Bucks, last year's finalists against defending champion Boston, are all but dead. They've got to win all four of their remaining games and Detroit must lose all three for Milwaukee to make the playoffs as the Western Conference's wild-card team. In the unlikely event that the Bucks sweep and the Pistons collapse, they'd finish tied with 39-43 records and the Bucks would qualify by having won the season series against Detroit.

But the Pistons can make the whole question academic by beating the Bucks tonight in Milwaukee — or Saturday in Detroit.

The Knicks have at least a reasonable chance for a playoff berth. They're scrambling with Houston Rockets and Cleveland Cavaliers for the two remaining Eastern Conference berths.

Houston and Cleveland are fighting for the second place — an automatic playoff spot — in the Central Division. Whichever team loses that scuffle — Houston has a one-game lead over the Cavaliers with two games apiece to go — will then be matched against the Knicks to see who gets the East's wild card. Right now, the Knicks are in a virtual tie with the Cavaliers, but they have four games to go, one of them Thursday night in Cleveland.

If Houston and Cleveland wind up tied, Houston gets second place and the playoff spot since it won the season series. And if the Knicks finish in a tie with either Houston or Cleveland, they get the berth by virtue of having won the season series against both.

The remaining seven playoff berths have already been clinched — by Golden State Warriors, Seattle SuperSonics, Chicago Bulls and Kansas City-Omaha Kings in the West and Boston Celtics, Buffalo Braves and Washington Bullets in the East. Only a few positions in the final standings are still to be decided.

The Celtics lead the Bullets by one game in the duel for the best record in the league and in the East. It could be decided when the Bullets play at Boston Friday night.

The Warriors and Bulls are fighting for the top spot in the West. Golden State leads by two games and can lock out Chicago by winning both its remaining games.

Chicago is also in another race, with the Kings for first in the Midwest Division. The Bulls hold a 1½-game edge there.

In the American Association Monday night, Kentucky beat San Antonio 103-88 and Utah downed Virginia 103-97.

Gorge Vale Junior Event To Determine Team Berths

There's more at stake than the usual allotment of prizes in the annual Easter Invitational junior golf tournament at Gorge Vale on Thursday.

The order of finish in the 18-hole medal tournament will determine the six-man Victoria team scheduled to compete in the opening of the Vancouver Island Junior Golf League.

Victoria will open league play next Saturday in Nanaimo. Campbell River, Mt. Brenton, Cowichan and Port Alberni also are competing in the league.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

On the subject of "Rome wasn't built in a day," we have one of the little stories in the anecdotage of bridge. Two young ladies enter a bridge school, and one of them says: "My friend has never played bridge before, and she would like to take some lessons."

"Fine," replies the receptionist, "and how about you?"

The reply was instantaneous: "Oh, no. I learned yesterday."

As a graphic demonstration of the fact that it takes years and years to become a good bridge player, observe today's deal, in which mere technical knowledge was not sufficient to produce the winning result.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

	NORTH

	♣ A K 7 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♦.

West's opening diamond lead was captured by dummy's queen. It was apparent to declarer that he had eight top tricks, and that the ninth could be made only in the heart suit.

It was equally apparent to him that when the defenders obtained the lead via the heart ace, they would almost surely attack in dummy's weakest suit, spades. The defenders, in this case, would make either four or five spades, sending declarer down to defeat. But declarer prevented this from happening by applying a bit of top-level chicanery.

At trick two he led a low spade off dummy, and inserted his nine-spot when East played low. West captured the trick with his queen, and paused for reflection.

It is axiomatic that when a declarer attacks a suit at no-trump, it is because he has length and-or strength in the suit, and is trying to create winning tricks in it. Hence it is accepted logic that the defenders shy away from leading that suit, for to lead it would assist declarer in attaining his objective.

And so West, upon winning trick two with his spade queen, concluded that it had to be wrong to lead spades. With the wishful thinking embodied that his partner held the heart king, at trick three he led the deuce of hearts.

When South won this trick with his queen, he had his ninth trick.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

Forecast for Wednesday, April 2

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis is on how you relate to those in authority, including professional superiors. You find you have plenty in common with those who appeared to be distant. You are going to collecct favors ue.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good lunar aspect coincides now with long trip, communication from afar, higher education. Spread wings. Refuse to be painted into corner. Open lines of communication. Bridge generation, language gaps. You can do it!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dig beneath surface indications. Get real story, especially where finances are concerned. Partner, mate and taxes are spotlighted. Thorough approach rings bell. What was a mystery can be solved — and resolved. You'll comprehend!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent is on what happens in legal area. Take nothing for granted. Be positive your statements are being properly interpreted. One who apparently opposes you is sending secret peace signal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Low-key approach is best — avoid ruffling feathers of one associated with employment. Make adjustments, concessions. Family member expresses appreciation for past favors. Learn to accept compliment without kicking toe in sand.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Romance could create illusions. Enjoy, but protect yourself in clinches. You know what should be done — the doing, however, is something else. Change, variety, intensified relationships are highlighted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You get lowdown, inside information. You are able to close deal, to finish what you start. What was a logjam boomerangs to your advantage. Another Libran could figure prominently. Your questions are going to be answered.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Relatives take initiative and may appear aggressive. Key is to hold your ground — and to maintain sense of humor. Gossip should not be accorded dignity of serious consideration. Key now is to finish, to distribute and publicize. Get ideas on paper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent is on personal possessions, right to buy and sell, title to deed and special clauses. Speak up in your own behalf. Delegating duties now would be an error. One who makes gesture may have petty motive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get what you request. Know it and be selective. One who is in responsible position is willing to make room for you at top. Cycle is high and your judgment is on target. Know it and proceed toward goal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Special event for benefit of charitable organization could be featured. You are active as active participant, spokesman. Hospital, institution could be in picture. Gemini, Sagittarius individuals figure prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You do some revising, tearing down for purpose of rebuilding on a more solid base. Emphasis is on romance, friends, desires and reward from business or professional efforts. Read between the lines — be aware of fine print.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are independent, moody and you are getting proverbial second chance now, with July and September indicated as outstanding months for you in 1975. Cancer, Capricorn persons play significant roles in your life. You enter new phase of activity this year and you wil have chance for greater self-expression.

SPEND REBATE TO CUT SLUMP BANKER URGES

NEW YORK (UPI) — The best way consumers can help end the recession, a U.S. economist says, is to take the tax rebate when it arrives and use it as a down payment on an expensive item.

"We'd get tremendous impact out of that," Alan Murray of First National City Bank of New York, said Monday.

If consumers use their $98 to $200 tax rebate as a down payment to buy something on the installment plan, Murray said, the $22.8 billion tax cut would be multiplied several times as it rippled through the economy.

Miser Starves to Death

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Bertha Adams was 71 and alone. For some reason she refused to spend any of her $800,000 in cash on food so she died of malnutrition after wasting away to 50 pounds, officials say.

The cash and hundreds of valuable stock certificates were found in safety-deposit boxes two days before her death Sunday in a hospital, Mrs. Adams' court-appointed lawyer said Monday.

"I continue to be flabbergasted," said lawyer Robert Leite.

"It's hard to get over seeing that much money."

"We had no indication that the woman had a dime," said neighbor Russell Blair.

"Her house looked like a pigpen and she got what clothes she had from the Salvation Army."

AUSTIN — When Texas joined the U.S. in 1845, it retained the right to divide itself into as many as five states.

Now two state lawmakers, Sen. Bob Gammage, a Houston Democrat, and Rep. Fred Agnich, a Dallas Republican, have introduced a bill calling for a public vote on the issue in 1976. The vote would be in the form of a non-binding referendum.

Gammage got a telegram later saying, "You've got to be out of your damned mind."

But Gammage and Agnich say Eastern states have a disproportionate share of power in Congress. Texas could increase its clout by dividing and getting eight additional senators for the four new states, they say.

GLOUCESTER, England — Farmer Les Coole gulped down about 1,300 baby eels in 44 seconds Monday to claim the world eel-eating championship for the third time. After the contest, Coole announced hi sretirement to let his 13-year-old son Billy try for the title next year.

"He will be 14 then and should have a big enough capacity to carry on the tradition," he said. Billy, meanwhile, was busy winning the junior sausage-eating contest.

LONDON — Alexander Shelepin, former Soviet secret police chief, was whisked secretely into Britain on Monday as a guest of the country's powerful trade unions. A Soviet airliner brought Shelepin, who now is the Soviet Union's trade unions chief, into Heathrow Airport. The visit has caused a storm of opposition because of Shelepin's former post as head of the KGB.

GALVESTON, Tex. — "Let's give a big hand for the nounced his retirement to let grand gal of show business — Miss Sally Rand," the announcer shouted into the microphone over the roar of a drum roll and clash of cymbals at the legendary fan dancer's 71st birthday celebration.

"It's better than doing needlepoint on the patio," Miss Rand said before showtime. "I think you only retire from what you don't like — and God knows I like this.

"When you love living you try to take care of the equipment. Take your vitamins. Be happy. That's the whole bit," she added.

BOSTON — Rep. Barney Frank thinks a short, cheap summer is just the thing for the ailing Massachusetts budget. He recommends the month of June be temporarily abolished.

"The governor knew in January that we would have to get rid of one month this year," Frank said. If the governor had been willing to "bite the bullet earlier we could have abolished February instead of June."

PARIS — A hospital reported on Monday the theft of half the head of an anarchist, who went to the guillotine in 1892. Officials said it could have been a student prank. After Francois-Claudius Koenigstein was beheaded for terrorist acts, a surgeon cut his head in two to study the brain. Half the head had since been kept in a preservative at a hospital.

Morgantaler Honored

TORONTO — Dr. Henry Morgentaler may be presented with the 1975 American Humanist of the Year award in prison, an award official says.

"If we cannot persuade the Canadian government to release him so he can receive the award, then we'll send a delegation to present it to him in prison," said Paul Kurtz, a board member of the American Humanist Association.

Morgentaler, scheduled to receive the award May 24 at Webster College, St. Louis, Mo., began serving an 18-month sentence last week in Montreal's Bordeaux jail after the Supreme Court of Canada upheld an appeals court decision to put him in jail for performing an illegal abortion.

Pilots Fly Into History

EDMONTON — Two pilots who served during the First World War and later helped pioneer aviation in northern Canada have been named to the aviation Hall of Fame.

Wilfred Brintnell of Edmonton and Francis Brown of Winnipeg were named to the Hall "for aviation contributions . . . of major benefit to Canada."

Brintnell joined the Royal Flying Corps in 1917 and flew as a commercial pilot for Ontario Provincial Air Service and Western Canada Airways following the war.

He was a manager with Aircraft Repair Ltd. during the Second World War and received the Order of the British Empire in 1946 for his wartime service. He died in 1971.

Brown was shot down over Belguim in 1918 while serving with the Royal Flying Corps.

He was a test pilot for Macdonald Brothers Aircraft in Winnipeg during the Second World War.

Guitarist Jeff Beck flew from London to L.A. to jam with Billy Preston, and the upshot will be a planned Spring tour with Preston and Beck co-fronting a band to include bassist Willie Weeks (who recently toured with George Harrison and Preston) and two drummers, Buddy Miles of the twice-furled Electric Flag and Ollie Brown, a Stevie Wonder band veteran. A rehearsal at Preston's L.A. home turned into a wide-open jam when David Bowie and Bobby Womack dropped by.

Bowie was in town to explore album possibilities with former Stooge Iggy Pop, no longer on any label since his split with Columbia. Meanwhile, a taped Midnight Special TV show is a certainty, with Preston hosting behind Beck and the new band. Labelle and Rufus will be on that show for support.

Vatican Worth $120M

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's profitable investments throughout the world were valued by the papal finance chief Monday as less than $120 million — none of it in firms making munitions or contraceptives.

Egidio Cardinal Vagnozzi, the Italian prelate in charge of the Holy See's economic affairs, said the figure did not include real estate such as St. Peter's Basilica and other churches and buildings that are expensive to operate but produce no profit.

Asked in an interview about the correctness of a published estimate of Vatican investments at 300 billion lire, or $480 million, the cardinal replied:

"I would say that profit-making property of the Holy See in Italy and the world is less than one-quarter of it. But I have not been authorized to disclose the precise amount."

He added that "property includes real estate, bonds and stocks. Real estate includes mainly buildings housing church offices which cost us money and make no profit. Other buildings are rented to Holy See employees at a low rate, therefore their profit is very limited."

Cardinal Vagnozzi said the Vatican transferred part of its investments from Italy elsewhere when several years ago the Italian government began taxing income from Italian investments.

Vatican financial affairs have received increasing publicity here, especially since the Pope in January vetoed a deficit budget and set up a commission to make drastic personnel and expense cuts.

Some experts said Vatican financial troubles resulted from the collapse of the banking empire of Italian financier Michele Sindonia, in which the Holy See had an interest.

Drugged, Beaten: SLA Duo

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) members say they have been beaten, drugged and threatened, and they don't want to be in court for their murder trial.

As jury selection began Monday, Joseph Remiro and Russell Little were granted their request not to be present. The judge allowed them to sit in separate holding cells in the basement of the courthouse, watching on closed-circuit television.

The defendants are charged with murdering Oakland schools chief Marcus Foster in November 1973.

Their statements were contained in a petition to Superior Court Judge Elvin Sheehy, who said they would be brought into court whenever necessary, such as for identification by a witness.

Jury selection, which attorneys said could take a week, was scheduled to continue today. Ten prospective jurors were examined Monday, and seven were tentatively accepted.

Remiro, 28, and Little, 25, said that while they were being held at San Quentin Prison their stay was "highlighted by a midnight tour of the gas chamber with a goon squad escort, complete with death threats which are the favorite form of self expression among the swine guards.

"Our food was drugged on three separate occasions to prove that we could easily and quietly be murdered in isolation."

A spokesman for the prison system said any charges of beating, drugging and threatening at San Quentin were "complete lies."

He said Little and Remiro were taken through the San Quentin gas chamber once, en route to a then-secret meeting with convict Clifford Jefferson, who had suggested he might be able to arrange release of kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

He said the only way to get to Jefferson's cell without going through the yard was to go through the gas chamber.

The defendants said that while at the Alameda County Jail "one of us was beaten on three occasions and the other on two."

In asking permission to leave the courtroom, Little and Remiro said they objected to the judicial process.

"We have entered pleas of not guilty only because it is the truth, but since truth and justice have nothing to do with these proceedings—we advise all of you who are conspiring to keep us imprisoned to do your worst!"

The SLA was the group which kidnapped Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974, at Berkeley, Calif. She subsequently renounced her parents and said she had joined her abductors and is being sought on a variety of charges, including kidnapping and robbery.

MacFARLAN

Principals Urged to Fight Limits on Tenure

VANCOUVER (Staff) — Principals should fight any attempt to limit their job tenure as suggested by outgoing B.C. Teachers' Federation president Jim MacFarlan, a group of principals was told Monday.

"It's a punitive thing: it has nothing to do with quality education," Bill Melville, president of the B.C. Principals' and Vice-Principals' Association, called MacFarlan's suggestion.

Melville spoke at a meeting of association members held shortly after MacFarlan made his farewell address to delegates at the BCTF annual meeting at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

MacFarlan proposed term appointments for principals so that after a few years as principal a person would have to go back to teaching again.

The move, he said, would "ensure that there is a continual flow of new ideas from the classroom to the principal's office and vice versa."

Melville, a Burnaby principal, called the idea "just a chicken way of getting rid of problems."

If a principal is good at his job, he shouldn't have to quit it after five years because of some arbitrary rule, he said.

If a principal is bad, the school board has other ways of getting rid of him.

"We're faced with doctrinaire people who suggest simplistic solutions," Melville said.

Melville challenged another MacFarlan statement that teachers are oppressed by hierarchical system of administration and they in turn become the oppressors of the students below them.

Today's teachers earn healthy salaries and can afford to hold conventions in the Hyatt so are not the downtrodden oppressed workers MacFarlan spoke of in his speech, he said.

"The public's tired of that line.

"They're not buying it, and I think from the reaction of the people upstairs (in the convention hall) they're not buying it either.

"The speech upstairs was geared to the proletariat, and the proletariat wasn't there."

Teacher Militancy to the Fore

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

VANCOUVER — Teacher militancy is still an issue in the B.C. Teachers Federation and it was evident in campaign speeches made Monday by candidates for executive positions in the federation.

All candidates for BCTF president and vice-president included their stand on militancy in short campaign speeches they made before delegates to the BCTF annual meeting.

Don Walmsley, principal of Boston Bar junior secondary school was the only candidate to speak in favor of militancy.

"The BCTF must always be ready for confrontation," said Walmsley who is running for president.

"If 27,000 teachers marched on Victoria we would have got the kind of pupil-teacher ratio (Education Minister Eileen) Dailly promised," he said.

Teachers are unhappy with Dailly's announcement that special funds made available a year ago to lower pupil-teacher ratios won't be repeated this year.

"I say confrontation is necessary, but not necessarily confrontation."

Bill Broadley, federation vice-president now running for president, said he has never avoided confrontation but prefers a meaningful dialogue.

Broadley, a moderate, is a former Victoria teacher.

Third candidate for president, Dorothy Glass of Campbell River, said she has found working together rather than against people is a more effective way of accomplishing things.

Glass was chairman of the BCTF task force on the status of women which made its report in 1973.

The three candidates seek to replace outgoing president Jim MacFarlan, the BCTF's best-known radical who called for continued teacher militancy in his farewell speech Monday.

Broadley will be replaced as first vice-president by Jack Tearne of Chilliwack, who has run unopposed.

Tearne said confrontation is not the best BCTF tactic and should be used only after all other avenues have been tried.

Running for second vice-president are Jerry Joyce of Lake Cowichan and Mavis De Girolamo, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

Elections will be held Wednesday.

Delegates to the annual meetings gave a standing ovation late Monday afternoon to a former BCTF president, E. H. Lock of New Westminster.

Locke, 89, who was president 50 years ago, was presented with a scroll and a framed photograph.

Also honored was North Vancouver teacher Arthur G. Creelman, who was presented with the J. A. Fergusson Memorial Award which goes annually to an outstanding teacher in the province.

Water Meeting Set

NORTH COWICHAN — Council members here will meet Resources Minister Bob Williams April 9 to discuss the water problem in the municipality.

"We must find out immediately where things stand or it is quite possible we will suffer severe water shortage in 1976," said North Cowichan mayor Gerry Smith.

He said the government has been slow to arrange this meeting at which the proposed Chemainus River dam will be discussed.

Williams intervened in the municipality's plan to dam the Chemainus early this year, saying alternative water sources had been investigated.

The minister announced recently the provincial government will undertake a full and comprehensive study of various water supply sources.

North Cowichan has already spent $200,000 on the dam project, and Smith said he hopes the district will be reimbursed if the government rules out the dam.

B.C. Forest Products supplies the municipality with 300,000 to 400,000 gallons of water each summer from its supplies taken from the Cowichan River.

This supply can only be depended on for one more year, some aldermen have said, because of the company's increasing needs.

Consul Held Since Jan. 31 Has Been Freed

CALI (AP) — Eric Leupin, the Netherland's honorary consul here who was kidnapped Jan. 31, has been freed, Colombian authorities announced.

Leupin, 40, was abducted by kidnappers who subsequently identified themselves as members of the Marxist Armed Revolutionary Force.

It was reported that Leupin was found in the town of Santander de Quilichao, not far from the villa where he was kidnapped. No further details were given.

TOWN TALK

Points of principle or philosophy are rarely followed up when they're raised at municipal councils, but dangerous precedents are sometimes set when these points are ignored.

Mayor Art Young knows that, and warned other members of Esquimalt's finance committee, but his warning went unheeded at a recent committee meeting.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Esquimalt branch, asked the committee for partial tax deferral or an outright grant because of their bad financial situation and drastically-increased taxes.

Legion spokesman Gil Laurenson pointed out to aldermen that B.C.'s Municipal Act allows councils to grant money to organizations working for the betterment of the community.

And the Legion is, said Laurenson.

But so is Yarrows shipyard, Young protested.

"We wouldn't give them tax concessions if they were losing money hand over fist," he said.

But Young's tack missed its mark as other committee members recommended the Legion be given a $5,000 grant if an audit shows it is warranted.

Perhaps those members should not be surprised if they find future agendas bulging with briefs from other community-minded organizations — and businesses — clamoring for a piece of the community pie to cover the taste of red ink.

Easter, time of joyous spiritual renewal, is also a bumper season for shoplifters that's second only to Christmas, according to a press release issued on behalf of Pinkerton's of Canada Ltd.

No trace of Christian tolerance is apparent, though, in the list of do's and don'ts which Frank Williams, the firm's sales director, suggests for the guidance of sales assistants and store proprietors.

His advice includes such gems as:

"Customers who act and look suspicious should be served quickly.

And, perhaps most heart-warming of all: "Use 'peepholes' in shelves or one-way mirrors to observe customers."

Well, merchants, it's too late to heed such invaluable tips this year but you'll know what to do next Easter. Meanwhile, it's comforting for the rest of us to know that we don't pass unnoticed when we enter your stores.

WILSON

Among the first of Greater Victoria school secretaries to return to their offices after five weeks off work because of janitor picket lines was Isabella B. R. Wilson, of Central Junior Secondary.

She is an executive member of Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 947 school clerical and teacher aide unit, which decided to work up to two hours a day starting today before new picket schedule becomes effective.

By court order, janitors and maintenance men may not picket between 8-10 a.m. and 3-4 p.m., allowing secretaries in the secondary schools to work from 8-10 each morning.

Next week they will be joined by secretarial staff in the elementary schools, who normally are off this week for Easter.

Vancouver Island MP Hugh Anderson (Liberal — Comox-Alberni) is in Geneva attending the United Nations Law of the Sea Conference but by the sound of his first letter from the Swiss capital he might as well have stayed home.

Hugh says he missed seeing the Alps because of heavy cloud cover during flight and arrived at the airport to find his luggage missing.

"It was a miserable day in Geneva. After losing my luggage and taking a look at the price of meals . . . the thought occurred to me that if things were going to continue like this, I might as well catch the next plane back," he wrote.

He added that he was also disappointed with Ireland, for when he flew over it didn't show up green and appeared to be just a few hills and lakes.

At the conclusion of his address to 200 local merchants at the Visitors Information Centre annual meeting last week, Pollen was besieged by well-wishers urging him to seek re-election in November.

Pollen, who has insisted he will not run in November, repeated "that's very kind" but did not indicate he had changed his mind.

He has been mayor four years.

One of the world's rarest photographs appears in the winter newsletter of World Wildlife Fund (Canada), published in Toronto and recently mailed to far-flung B.C.

The photo is of the Vancouver Island marmot, which is unknown anywhere else, and was taken by University of B.C. graduate student Douglas Heard in a sub-alpine region of the Nanaimo Lakes area while Heard was engaged in a two-year study leading to his thesis.

Daryll Hebert, regional wildlife biologist for the recreation and conservation department at Nanaimo, said he is one of the few to have seen the V. I. marmot, which he describes as chocolate-brown but otherwise similar to the hoary marmot of central B.C.

There are two or three colonies numbering about 100 specimens all told, and all make their homes above the tree line.

Females grow to about eight pounds and males about a pound heavier, Hebert said. The V. I. marmot is an endangered species and there are penalties for trapping and killing the animal.

Everyone Goes Celsius But Weather Office

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria's weather went Celsius today and the conversion appeared to be going smoothly everywhere—except at the weather office.

"We have been urging everyone to think Celsius and not try to convert to fahrenheit — but we are busily converting ourselves."

Primarily because the weather office has no Celsius thermometers.

"The instruments we have (fahrenheit) are all perfectly good and we are not about to throw them away. The total investment is several thousands of dollars. As fahrenheit thermometers break we will replace them with Celsius thermometers. This process will take years."

But that is only part of the problem.

Computers are programmed for fahrenheit and all comparison figures from previous months and years are in fahrenheit temperatures.

"We are spending much of the day converting from one to the other. And we will continue to convert for months probably two or three years.

"However, that's our internal problem. The public should just forget about fahrenheit and start thinking Celsius."

The weather office will give temperatures in Celsius only, starting today.

Meanwhile, new Celsius thermometers were getting a mixed reception in Victoria stores.

Eaton's sold a special shipment of 1,000 thermometers in less than four hours but that was due as much to the low price as an interest in conversion.

"People were buying them by the handful," said department manager Ken Daly.

The regular price was $3.49 but they went on sale at $1.49.

Jack Hutchins, manager of Simpsons-Sears, said interest in Celsius thermometers has been "only moderate" so far but sales are expected to increase now that the conversion has been compleed.

Most of the thermometers show both Celsius and fahrenheit readings.

The switch to Celsius is the first major step in a plan to convert Canada to the metric system by 1980.

Picket Pass For Severson

Saanich alderman Fred Severson has been told he will be given a pass to cross picket lines and attend Saanich council and Capital Region District meetings.

Tom Smith, spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said Severson was told Saturday he could have a pass.

"All he has to do is contact the union," Smith said.

Severson is a Victoria fireman and a member of the firefighters' union. He has refused to cross picket lines without a pass and had been refused one up to Saturday.

"He was originally refused a pass because he was one of the aldermen who voted to lock out the employees," said Jim Brett, president of Saanich local 374.

"The lockout was a complete abdication of responsibility by the aldermen."

Brett said Severson would be given a pass so he could carry out his responsibilities to the community and municipal employees.

"It's time the aldermen faced up to their responsibilities and start negotiatng with their employees in good faith," Brett said. 'We're trying to be reasonable. That is why Severson will be given a pass. Now it's time the employers acted reasonably to bring this dispute to a fair settlement."

Brett said all the municipal workers are asking is that they be given the same wages other employees doing the same kind of work in the community are being paid.

Poker Ban For Students

Poker has been banned in University of Victoria's Student Union Building.

After reports that student gambling in the building was on the increase, student Representative Assembly governors have outlawed the practice.

Varying reports said poker pots ranged from "nickel and dime" to $200-$300, said student president Clay Shold.

Gambling in licensed premises is illegal, said Shold.

Colwood Site Ruled Out For Oil Tanks

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

The Capital Regional Board will take a closer look at a property in View Royal and another in rural Saanich for relocation of downtown fuel storage tanks after learning a Colwood site has been ruled out.

Board chairman Jim Campbell confirmed today that Defence Minister James Richardson has flatly rejected the region's proposal to relocate the Inner Harbor tank farms on a 23-acre Colwood site west of Esquimalt Harbor owned by the Department of National Defence.

That site was the one most favored out of 11 potential sites considered in a report prepared by regional planners nine months ago. But it drew opposition from regional directors Earl Pallister and Pat Massey as well as some Colwood residents.

There are six commercial fuel tank depots scattered over about 20 acres of the Inner Harbor and the regional board favors moving them elsewhere so the land can be developed for open space and housing.

Campbell said the next two alternative sites considered most suitable will now have to be examined by the board.

In the planners' report, they are listed as:

Of the first possibility, the report says there is a well-protected harbor and adequate depth. A wharf already exists but if it could be used, would have to be extended to beyond the bounds of the booming grounds and the petroleum would have to be piped from the dock to the site, about half a mile.

Of the Burnside Road possibility the report says there is ample acreage but several houses would have to be displaced. Ships would use the same wharf as the first location but a 2½-mile pipeline would be needed.

Campbell had harsh words for Richardson over rejection of the DND site at Colwood, saying after two years he had never been able to communicate directly with the defence minister for a discussion of the question.

"He obviously had a pact with a cabinet colleague to give this surplus land for parks," Campbell said.

The word on the Colwood site came to the regional board by way of a letter from Senator Ray Perrault, who quoted a letter to him from Richardson.

Richardson told Perrault the defence department had repeatedly stated that space for the Inner Harbor tanks' relocation was not available on DND land.

The defence minister said that over the years about 80 acres of DND land has been transferred to the regional board and another 18 acres or so to the province.

His department is transferring an area of land to the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development which includes some if not all of the proposed tank farm site, Richardson wrote. The land is being transferred for the approaches to Fort Rodd Hill national park.

He also said that under no circumstances could the DND accept integration of civilian refuelling installations with the navy depot already on the property.

"Security and other operational needs make such a suggestion impracticable."

Campbell described the latter explanation as "absolutely ridiculous." The regional board chairman said he understands the entire fuel supply system for the military in Halifax, for example, is a commercial operation.

The regional board knew the property transfer was under way. What it was asking for was reconsideration of the matter, Campbell said.

Where surplus federal lands are being disposed of, local needs should get paramount consideration, he added.

Campbell said there has been a regrettable notion that what the region is trying to do is build a tank farm. What the board is trying to do is restore to a much more important urban use the Inner Harbor land now used for tank farms.

"That land has tremendous potential and sooner or later those tanks will have to come out."

Doomsday Threat Protest Planned

By ELEANOR BOYLE
Times Staff

A Survival Committee of Victorians has been formed to take positive action to stop construction of "doomsday machines" 50 miles south of B.C.

The group was formed Monday night to try to halt the U.S. government's proposed Trident nuclear submarine base in Bangor, Wash., on the Hood Canal.

Demonstrations with placards and guerrilla theatre in the Inner Harbor Sunday will be the committee's first public protest.

Members include representatives of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches, the Citizens' Association to Save the Environment, the World Federalists, the Voice of Women, the Pacific Life Community, and the Quaker Society of Friends.

The committee will operate from the office of 202 - 1029 Douglas St.

Sunday's demonstration will be held in conjunction with the blessing of the Pacific Trollers' Association fishing fleet at 1:30 p.m.

"Use of Canadian waters to operate these doomsday machines represents a horrendous violation of Canadian sovereignity and neutrality," said Rupert Downing, committee spokesman.

He said the nuclear bases would send submarines heavily equipped with nuclear arms into surrounding waters including Canadian ones.

"They are specifically designed to start war," he said.

He added the base would make B.C. a prime target in any future military conflict.

"The U.S. navy has determined that B.C. is an expendable area," said Downing.

Information obtained from the publication Defense Monitor showed the U.S. government has southern B.C. mapped out as "something like unnecessary civilian surplus," he said.

Ferries Afoul, Islands Isolated

Many Gulf Island residents are without ferry service as a result of Sunday's vicious storm.

Some of them were trying to cross to the mainland on the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen run today, compounding the traffic problem.

There were three-hour waits at the Swartz Bay terminal this morning with two-lane lineups reaching to half way between Tryon and McDonald Park Roads.

Officials could not say whether traffic would be cleared by tonight.

The Queen of Tsawwassen was knocked out of commission Sunday alongside the dock at Long Harbor on Salt Spring Island.

A ferry spokesman said her propeller was damaged, probably by a log. She has been taken to the provincial government's drydock on the mainland for repairs.

This eliminates the ferry service between Long Harbor, Pender, Mayne, Saturna, Galiano and Tsawwassen.

The Queen of Tsawwassen was replacing the Sechelt Queen, which is also in drydock having plates in her forepeak repaired. The plates were buckled during an earlier storm.

The spokesman said no estimate of how long the ferry service would be cut off could be given until an engineer's report was received.

The Vesuvius-Crofton run is also a storm victim because the storm sank the floating platoon that supports the dock at the Vesuvius terminal.

The spokesman said there could be no estimate of how long it would take to refloat the pontoon.

He said the Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen traffic should be reduced to normal by the end of today.

Meanwhile, six Victorians who rode out the storm in a 29-foot sloop are expected to reach Victoria tonight unharmed.

Their mother, Mrs. Richard Ramsay of 1512 Brooke, said Wellan Rt's inboard engine was damaged in the storm, slowing down the progress of the boat, which was expected to reach Sidney Spit Monday night.

Aboard the boat are the Ramsays' son, Rick; their son and daughter-in-law, Kenneth and Alice; Ronald Ramsay and the men's sisters, Mrs. Valerie Biddlecomb and Lonia Findley.

Mrs. Ramsay said the boat's anchor line was snapped by the wind as they weathered the storm near Tumbo Island, off the southeast tip of Saturna Island. They had sailed there, changing course shortly after setting out for Friday Harbor on San Juan Island from Oak Bay Marina.

The boat grounded twice during the storm as she was tossed about in 25-foot waves, whipped by winds up to 70 miles an hour.

"It was really something that they got through," Mrs. Ramsay said. "They're pretty competent and level-headed but they probably did a lot of praying."

Meanwhile, the body of Arthur Winchester, 48, of Edmonton, was washed ashore Monday at English Bay on the mainland. He was one of seven people aboard two boats that capsized Sunday in the Fraser River.

The bodies of Joseph Dann, 33, also of Edmonton, and his son Joe, 13, were recovered earlier.

Still missing are Lorraine Bartlett, about 30, of Vancouver, and Jack Payne, 47, of Edmonton.

Naval Exercise Cut Short

Three Esquimalt-based destroyers are returning to their home port five weeks earlier than planned due to the scaling down of an international naval exercise off the Philippines.

An armed forces spokesman said today HMCS Terra Nova, HMCS Restigouche and HMCS Kootenay will arrive in late April instead of their scheduled return date of June 4.

The destroyers and the support ship HMCS Provider were to have exercised with American and Philippine vessels. "The whole thing has been scaled down," the spokesman said. "There is to be no anti-submarine aspect so there is really no reason for our ships to take part."

He said he could not comment on why the exercise had been drastically reduced or if the trouble in Vietnam was a contributing factor.

After the exercise the four ships were to have made calls at Hong Kong, in South Korea and Japan. These have now been cancelled.

They are HMCS Mackenzie, HMCS Qu'Appelle and HMCS Saskatchewan.

The spokesman said the Provider will remain with the three other destroyers, returning with them May 8.

FRESHNESS ADDITIVE MAY BE VIRUS FIGHTER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A food additive that preserves freshness also will kill certain viruses, scientists have found, raising the possibility the substance might be useful as an anti-viral agent.

The food additive, butylated hydroxytoluene of BHT, was tested by Pennsylvania State University biophysicists to see if it would render inactive certain viruses that contain fatty substances.

In a report in the current issue of Science magazine, the researchers reported discovering that BHT is a potent killer of fatty or lipid-containing viruses, including the common herpes simplex cirus, which causes cold sores.

"Further experimentation will elucidate the general significance of BHT as an anti-viral drug," they wrote.

BHT wasn't effective, however, against viruses that don't contain lipids in the membranes or thin sacks that surround them. Polio virus, for example, was unaffected.

"Our observations suggest that studies of the mechanism of inactivation as well as studies of the potential anti-viral activity of BHT with laboratory animals may be appropriate," the scientists said.

The tests reported in Science were conducted in laboratory dishes using smaples of viruses exposed to varying concerntrations of BHT.

BHT is widely used to maintain freshness and prevent spoilage in dried cereals, cooking oils, canned goods and various animal foods, the scientists said.

Muscular Dystrophy Firemen's Cause

Firemen in Greater Victoria will take to the streets Friday and Saturday, campaigning for the first time locally in what has become the firefighters' cause throughout North America — MD.

MD doesn't just stand for medical doctor. It also means Muscular Dystrophy, a paralyzing and often fatal disease which numbers many children among its victims.

In years past the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada received funds from the United Appeal. But after a meeting between the two agencies it was agreed that in future all local muscular dystrophy campaigns will be run by Greater Victoria firefighters.

Nearly every fire-fighting association in Canada and the U.S. has endorsed the Muscular Dystrophy Association. All proceeds from the drive later this week will go to the association.

About 180 firemen, from Oak Bay, Saanich, Victoria and federal forces, will take part in the campaign, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Working in pairs, they will concentrate their efforts outside shopping centres, asking for donations for the MDA.

The association uses the funds in three main areas:

Sponsoring research aimed at treatment of MD;

Providing practical services to ease distress of victims; and Informing the public and medical profession on the nature and management of the disease.

Trend by 2000 Away from Youth

By GEORGE VINE

BONN — German sociologists predict that by the year 2000 the Western world will be dominated by the middle-aged. Pensioners will outnumber teen-agers.

The revolutionary ferment of youth will be a thing of the past. Music, fashions and politics will be dictated by the conservative taste of people in their 40s.

While in Africa, Asia and the Third World generally the population explosion continues unabated, in the industrialized countries of the West, the Communist world and Japan the trend towards an older population has already set in.

For the first time in 130 years the German birthrate is falling behind, the West German government statistical office in Wiesbaden has reported. In the last three years more Germans died than came into the world.

If the trend is not stopped, by the turn of the century the population of West Germany will shrink from its present 62 million to 57 million, say population experts.

The same signs are apparent throughout Europe, in Protestant Sweden as in Catholic France, in Communist East Germany as in capitalist West Germany.

The birth and death rates are nearing the point of balance in Canada, in the United States and the Soviet Union, in Japan just as in Switzerland. This means a stagnant and older population.

This simple biological fact, sociologists say, may be a more powerful determinant of the future of society and the ultimate fate of Western civilization than the atom bomb, the energy crisis or the conquest of space.

A declining population would radically change most of the assumptions of economic planners. Instead of the present shortage of houses and schools there will be a surplus. Less food and less power will be needed. There will be fewer people of working-age to support those too old to work. Insurance experts estimate that the social security contributions deducted from wages will have to be increased by 50 per cent.

Already the first symptoms of the declining birthrate are visible in West Germany.

More than 25 maternity hospital and natal clinics have closed down. Only 258,000 baby carriages and strollers were sold last year — 40 per cent fewer than six years ago.

Many midwives are underemployed. Ironically, some are being retrained as advisers in family planning. A maker of baby food faced with dwindling sales, remarked grimly: "We shall have to try to keep them on the stuff until they are three."

Other firms are trying to open up alternative markets by selling baby food as an invalid and slimming diet.

So far, the industrialized countries in both East and West seem to be unworried by the decline, with the exception of Romania which has banned the pill and abortion.

But a curious little jump in the birth curve in West Germany points to a simple method of producing a baby bulge to order.

Last winter West Germany banned cars from the road on Sundays to save gasoline. Nine months later, more babies were born.

Today's furniture is far more durable and scratch-resistant than that manufactured only a few years ago. But it still needs proper care to keep its good looks.

The 4-page folder "Proper Care of Furniture Finishes" urges you to dust your furniture frequently, always following the grain of the wood. A few drops of good furniture polish will help you pick up the dust instead of just pushing it around.

The folder also suggests you wash you furniture when the wax has built up to a thick film, hiding the natural beauty of the grain. Wash one section at a time with a cloth dipped in a sudsy solution of warm water and a detergent. Rinse the cloth often.

You will also find tips on how to protect your furniture. For instance, always use a pad to prevent your dining table from heat damage. Use coasters or pads under the drinks, vases and flower pots you want to place on your furniture.

One good furniture polish is generally all right for all types of finishes. Be sure never to use self-polishing floor wax on furniture and follow the manufacturer's directions before you use any polish for the first time.

To repair deep scratches or bad stains you may need a professional finisher. However, touch-up products are available at most paint and hardware stores.

With your request, please, enclose a long (No. 10) self-addressed, stamped envelope and send it to: Canadian Paint Manufacturers Association, 1080 Beaver Hall Hill, Montreal, Que. H2Z 1T5.

Resents Prying By Nosy People

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my husband was in an auto accident and suffered an injury to his spine that left him paralyzed from the waist down. He has made a remarkable recovery, both physically and psychologically, and gets around very well in a wheelchair.

We are thankful that he is alive and we have both accepted the fact that he will never walk again, but you would not believe some of the questions people ask me. I mean personal questions about my husband's "condition." (What he is—and isn't capable of doing.) They want to know if our sex life is over. It isn't. But I resent their prying.

How do other people in this situation handle this problem? I feel like telling them it's none of their business, but I'm just not the type to say anything like that.

Is there some other way to politely tell them I would rather not answer such personal questions?—Stuck For Words

DEAR STUCK: Answer their rude questions with another question: In a very pleasant tone, ask, "Why do you want to know?" And then change the subject. (This really works!)

DEAR ABBY: I was married to a man for 13 years, and we had three children. After we were divorced I tried to keep in touch with my ex-husband's parents because I wanted my children to know their paternal grandparents even though I had to initiate all the meetings. (I used to take the kids on the bus. My in-laws had a car and it would have been easier for them to come to me, but I didn't let that stop me.)

Well, I finally met a very nice man who married me and adopted my children. Their last name was legally changed to his. When my ex-in-laws heard the news they told me that since my children no longer had their last name, they didn't consider them their grandchildren — so they didn't care to see them again.

How about that? — Hurt.

DEAR HURT: Unreal! It's their loss.

DEAR ABBY: What's a nice girl like you doing writing a column when you can belt out a song like you did on Dinah Shore's program? — Judy S.

DEAR JUDY: Just lucky, I guess.

DEAR ABBY: I read about that woman whose husband refused to take a bath, and it was interfering with their marriage.

You should have told her to invite her husband to take a bath with HER. That's what I did when I had the same problem, and now my husband is the cleanest man in town.

—Mrs. Clean

Population Top Problem

DENVER (UPI) — Russell Peterson, chairman of the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality, said Monday population growth is the world's most pressing problem, yet it is one which receives little attention.

"If the present growth rate continues, world population will reach eight billion within the next 35 years," Peterson told Colorado legislators. "Although recession, inflation, energy, food and environment command our attention, the most pressing world problem is population. It exacerbates the other problems."

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By Dr. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Not so many years ago, if you had a heart attack, you were almost certainly kept flat on your back for a month and often for two months. Extreme caution in all cases was the rule and the deleterious effects of prolonged bed rest — muscle wasting, easy fatigue, poor ventilation of the lungs and loss of the normal body reflexes that keep you from fainting when you stand up — were accepted as caused by the injured heart, rather than by prolonged immobilization.

Back in 1952, Dr. Samuell Levine of Boston, an expert both sufficiently renowned and sufficiently courageous to risk breaking the rules in the interest of his patients, began to get many of his heart-attack victims out of bed and sitting up in soft armchairs as early as the third day of their hospitalization.

He found that the heart functioned more efficiently when the patient was sitting up, that clots were less likely to form in the leg veins, and that the physical effort of using a bedside commode for bowel movements was much less than that required for the awkwardly uphill negotiation of a chilly bedpan. His patients benefited psychologically as well as physically.

Following Dr. Levine's lead, the necessity for rule-book bed rest has been increasingly questioned and there has emerged over the years a much more common-sense approach as to how long heart-attack victims should be kept immobilized.

Today most physicians agree that the first five to seven days after a heart attack are critical and the patient should be at rest in bed or a chair. The introduction of electronic monitoring since the days of Dr. Levine, with all the paraphernalia of the coronary units, sometimes presents problems for armchair management, but in the absence of complications such management is possible when the doctor recommends it.

In any event, except with the persistence of severe pain, shock or other complications, every patient during this period should have leg exercises frequently during the day, may feed themselves, wash up, brush their own teeth. Most doctors prefer that their patients use a bedside commode rather than the bed pan

After the first week, if pain has stopped, heart function is good and there are no abnormalities of heart action, the sum of all the studies done in the first week can usually predict whether the victim is a "good risk" or not. If he is, many doctors now get such patients out of bed and walking about. Within a few days, they will be sent home from the hospital and very soon after are back to work.

For the others, there can be no rule-book management; each one requires individualized care that will depend on problems they present.

Thus the contemporary management of heart attacks is now like the proper individualized care of any illness, and never a question of blanket regulations as it very nearly was a generation ago.

Return Exams—Educator

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

An internationally-known educator says it was a retrograde step to abolish government-sponsored high school leaving examinations in B.C.

"It was a mistake," said Lloyd Brereton, 1337 Fairfield, now retired. "The number of dropouts in first year university indicates the need to re-introduce examinations in high schools."

The exams were dropped two years ago by the province.

He observed many students are hampered when they first enter university because they haven't been prepared or disciplined for university training at the high school level.

"The result is you get students who shouldn't be in university and those who are suitable have difficulty in adjusting themselves — if they can," he said.

Brereton spent most of his career at Cambridge University as secretary of local examinations — one of eight examination authorities in Britain.

He has written two books on the subject—The Case For Examinations, published in 1943, and Examinations — Where Next?, published in 1964 and considered a classic by some educators.

He comes from a family of educators. His grandfather attended the famous Rugby School in England and founded many public schools during the latter part of the 19th century. Public schools are private schools in Britain.

His brother Henry is warden of Gordonstoun School in Scotland, and taught Prince Philip and Prince Charles who both attended there. The school, founded by Kurt Hahn, a German, is based on the lines of the Outward Bound training program.

His brother Charles is principal of Bottishan Village College, a community college which pioneered in the 1920's education for both adults and children.

Brereton advocates high school examinations for students planning to enter university and another set of examinations for those entering specialized training institutions like the British Columbia School of Technology in Burnaby.

"There should be more institutions giving specialized course which don't demand an academic education, such as diatetics and hospital management, physiotherapy and — even engineering," he said.

While a cultural background is desirable, he added, students should have the option of taking some specialized course without having to go to university.

"I think we are moving in that direction in B.C.," he added.

Brereton said students should be made to write more essays in schools and they should be corrected by the teacher.

So many students today can't write a simple report — can't spell when they leave school," he said. "It is a major problem."

Brereton said the teaching of languages, especially French in schools is a disgrace.

"They should be taught to speak it and the examinations should be oral," he said. "This is the way children are taught languages in European schools and they do much better than our children."

"On the whole I think we should have more oral examinations," he added. "It teaches children to speak properly, and to express themselves clearly.

Tasty, Nutritious Sprouts From Germinating Seeds

By JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH

Ed Zahniser was ecstatic. "The economics and ecologics of my new garden," he said, "can't be beat. The whole vegetable patch fits into the corner of a closet. Everything I raise turns out perfect every time. My crops are ready to eat without any plucking, paring, coring or stringing. Most of them are great raw and the rest are table-ready after being steamed or sauteed for the barest couple of minutes.

"My produce is always absolutely fresh and loaded with vitamins, trace elements, protein and simple sugars. And, best of all, the mini-vegetables I grow cost only about one-tenth the price of supermarket fare!"

Ed, as thousands of other North Americans are now doing, had just discovered the art of germinating seeds into tasty and nutritious sprouts. Sprouts? That's right. Sprouts. You eat them every time you enjoy a good meal in a Chinese restaurant . . . but, until just a year or two ago, very few U.S. or Canadian citizens realized that they could produce such a miracle food right in their own homes.

And sprouts are, indeed, a miracle food. According to carefully researched test data, one-half cup of 72-hour-old soybean shoots contains as much vitamin C as six full glasses of orange juice. Oats that have germinated for five days have 500 to 1350 per cent more B-vitamins than unsprouted oats. The shoots of grains and legumes supply their consumer with all eight of the amino acids that make up "complete" protein. and the high level of simple sugars in sprouts puts the crunchy little morsels in the category of "quick energy" foods, since the monosaccharides they contain require little digestive breakdown and enter the bloodstream almost immediately.

Perhaps more amazing yet, the bodybuilding nutrients that are produced as sprouts grow are almost perfectly stable. Even after the shoots are dehydrated or frozen, they retain their enhanced food values.

Virtually any seed, grain or legume can be sprouted for human consumption. (One caution: Potatoes are a member of the deadly nightshade family and their shoots should never be eaten.) Alfalfa, however — which is exceptionally easy to cultivate into mild-tasting shoots that please nearly everyone — is almost ideal for the beginning sprouter's first experiments. Most health food stores sell the plant's seeds in handy little packages and a one-pound bag (about $2.95 at today's inflated prices) should furnish a family of four with a daily salad for a full month.

Select clean, whole seeds which have not been chemically treated in any way and thoroughly rinse a tablespoon of the tiny alfalfa pellets in fresh water. Pick out the chaff and cracked hulls (which float) and put the fertile seeds (which sink) into a pint jar and soak them overnight in triple their volume of water.

This soaking should be done in a dark place (such as a kitchen cabinet) and the water should be warm (room temperature) and free of chlorine or fluoride (which can sterilize the tender embryos).

Pour off the fluid the next morning and save it to add to fruit juice or soup stock (it's loaded with water-soluble vitamins and minerals). The seeds will have doubled in size and should be rinsed once in fresh water.

Leave the swelling packets of life in their jar and cap the container with a piece of cheesecloth held in place with a rubber band or with a circle of screen wire secured with a screw-on canning ring. Then invert the jar at a 45-degree angle in a big bowl and set this simple, homemade sprouting apparatus back in the cupboard.

The last two steps, by the way, are very important. Germinating seeds will sour and rot if left standing in water and — by tipping your container upside down at the specified angle — you'll make certain the developing shoots drain well after each rinsing. Similarly, since sunlight toughens the mini-plants, growing yours in total darkness will guarantee a tender and tasty harvest.

Keep the cupboard vegetable patch warm (room temperature to 90 degrees F) and try to flush some fresh water into and out of the jar every four to six hours. That's the ideal irrigation schedule. If you're out of the house all day, however, a quick rinse over the sprouts every 12 hours (once in the morning and again at night) works almost as well.

In three to six days, depending on temperature and your rinsing schedule, the shoots will have increased in volume 16 or 20 times over and will have turned themselves into tasty, nourishing victuals.

You'll find that the sprouts store well in the refrigerator and that you can eat them on breakfast cereal, in fresh salads, steamed (to kill the slightly "green" taste), in scrambled eggs, sprinkled on soups, in meatloaf, baked into your favorite bread recipe, fried in stews, blended into health drinks, as a sandwich filler, in desserts, as a snack and a hundred other ways.

Not everyone will like alfalfa shoots used all these ways, of course, but each member of the family should find at least a few of the above suggestions quite satisfying. And then, for more variety, you can try sprouting mung beans, lentils, peas, wheat, oats, barley, rye, unhulled sesame, cress, red clover and almost any other seed imaginable!

For more information about sprouting a wide variety of seeds, — and recipes for using the shoots. — send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope to The Mother Earth News, care of Times Family Desk, 2621 Douglas. Ask for Reprint No. 59, "Sprouts."

Scientists Take Pulse On Baker

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (AP) — A team of scientists, with a little help from a United States navy helicopter, set up a seismograph on the top of 10,788-foot Mt. Baker Monday as part of an effort to keep track of the mountain's vital signs.

Eight scientists and about 400 pounds of equipment were delivered to Sherman Crater on the mountain in Washington's North Cascades.

The navy said blowing snow and low clouds prohibited evacuation of the scientists and they would remain at a base camp overnight. The scientists had anticipated this and were prepared for it.

New vents on the mountain have been spewing steam and rock debris into the air since March 10. It is said to be the first major change in the mountain's thermal activity in 70 years since photographs have been made of the crater.

The seismograph will transmit readings from the top of the mountain to the University of Washington.

New Courtship For Roommates

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Unmarried couples who are living together may be involved in a new form of courtship rather than trial marriage, according to three researchers at Virginia Polytechnic Insititue.

The three, prof. James W. Croake, associate prof. James E. Keller and assistant prof. Nancy Catlin, conducted a study of the social phenomenon and have published the results in a book entitled: "Unmarrieds Living Together: It's Not All Gravy.

The researchers studied 89 couples, most of them college students or recent graduates, living near two universities in Florida and the Universities of Minnesota and Montana.

The book gives several reasons for the theory of a new courtship pattern rather than a substitute for marriage.

The end of a school term or graduation often were terminal points in the relationship, indicating lack of the binding commitment that trial marriage implies, they said.

Less than 10 per cent of the couples said they actually planned to marry, but in more than half the relationships, one partner or both said they would like to marry their present mates.

Many of the students surveyed said their relationship helped them to understand themselves better and increased emotional maturity and self-confidence.

The researchers said the disadvantages found in the relationships were a tendency of one partner to become overly dependent on the other, a feeling of being "trapped," and the need felt by many to hide their relationship from their parents.

The researchers said they believe that living together without marriage satisfies needs for intimacy without the binding legal restrictions.

The survey points to a need for more acceptance and understanding of the social pattern by parents and college officials and that unmarried couples should be offered counseling services like those provided married students.

Her memory we shall always keep,

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.

GARDENING

Just In Case You Forgot . . .

Today marks the first target date for metric conversion that affects all Canadians: the change from fahrenheit to Celsius readings for temperatures.

The date was announced a year or so ago, to be followed by rainfall measurements in millimetres and snowfall in centimetres on September 1 of this year.

To assist gardeners in making this change all temperatures given in this column have been stated in Celsius followed by the fahrenheit equivalent since the beginning of 1975.

The comparative scales were illustrated in a special weekend gardening article on February 1, together with conversion factors and suggestions for making temporary paper scales to fit present thermometers.

Most of us are now feeling more comfortable with Celsius readings. We are no longer shocked by the word "zero," realizing it means nothing more than a light frost, while 10 degs. C. suggests a good growing temperature.

Home gardeners in the habit of borrowing the newer English gardening books from libraries, or subscribing to English gardening periodicals, had their introduction to Celsius temperature readings and metric measurements of length around seven years ago, and now have no difficulties in making mental conversions.

Others have acquired the Metric Conversion Kits and booklets offered by the Metric Commission (Box 4000, Ottawa, Ontario, K1S 5G8) and are using them to become familiar with grams, litres, measurements in metres, and speed in kilometres, for which conversion dates have also been set.

Although the fahrenheit scale is no longer recognized most of us will still be using our present thermometers. With a home-made Celsius scale attached we have no difficulties, and a similar scale for higher temperatures can be attached to oven thermometers.

For a while we shall need to use conversion factors when reading our older gardening books. These factors are easily applied since we have only three figures to deal with: 5, 9, and 32.

Unfortunately some press releases have been incorrectly printed and caused unnecessary confusion, so once again we give the conversion factors and suggest that gardeners keep this article handy for reference.

CELSIUS TO FAHRENHEIT

Take the degrees Celsius, multiply by 9, divide by 5, and add 32. Example: 10 degs. C. x 9 equals 90; divided by 5 equals 18; 18 plus 32 equals 50 degs. F.

FAHRENHEIT TO CELSIUS

Take the degrees F. and subtract 32, multiply by 5, divide by 9. Example: 50 F. minus 32 equals 18; multiplied by 5 gives 90; divided by 9 gives 10 degs. C.

APPROXIMATE CONVERSION

For approximate conversions done mentally that are sufficiently accurate for low temperatures, subtract 32 from the degrees F. (50 —32 equals 18), divide by 2 to give 9, add 10 per cent (0.9) to give 9.9, which approximates the correct conversion of 10 degs. C.

In the booklet Moving to Metric is an old Chinese saying which we shall appreciate more as we move further into metric conversion:

"We hear and we forget; we see and we remember; we do, and then we understand."

Archives Gets Taped Memories

The provincial archives has acquired 1,200 taped interviews of the life history of British Columbians recorded over the past 15 years.

The tapes are a gift of Imbert Orchard, formerly of the CBC and now with the communications studies department at Simon Fraser University.

More than 3,000 hours of taped reminiscences, covering the period from 1870 to 1918 in the lives of ordinary British Columbians, are included in the gift.

Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall said the gift to the aural history department of the archives could prove to be the finest body of resource material assembled to date on the history of the common man in B.C.

The tapes are expected to become available to the public later this year.

'Meaningful' CUPE Talks Vowed

Public employees going back to the bargaining table with regional employers on Wednesday are expected to respond to suggested lines of agreement proposed when mediation talks adjourned last week.

A source in the regional employers bargaining group — who expressed more optimism than at any previous point in negotiations — said several avenues which may be open to solving the nine-week-old strike-lockout were suggested to the unions.

Some meaningful response is anticipated at talks resuming at the Empress Hotel between school and civic employers and locals of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, assisted by provincial mediator Clark Gilmour.

Proposals have not been discussed openly in detail, but it is understood one suggestion is for a two-year contract based upon an earlier offer embracing a basic average increase of about 24 per cent with cost of living increments. This was raised by 5 per cent effective next January and was rejected by CUPE negotiators as employers left the hotel for the Easter holiday.

CUPE area bargaining committee chairman Jim Walker said today:

"In the light of the last two meetings, things are looking better as long as we can keep talking."

He would not speculate on specific matters.

Normal picketing was in effect for municipal workers on strike and locked out, and reduced picketing was being done by striking school board janitors and maintenance men.

Local 382 school employees are appealing a B.C. Supreme Court interim ruling that imposes severe restrictions on picket acitivities, but no date has been fixed for a court hearing.

CUPE spokesman Tom Smith is reported as saying B.C. Federation of Labor will support the local in the appeal, which has implications for organized labor generally in this province.

Also being heard Wednesday is an application by Farmer Construction Ltd. to halt CUPE picketing at its Bay Village building site, where the union alleges strike-breaking construction inspectors have been working. Farmer denies the allegation.

Partially back at work today are some members of CUPE Local 947 school secretarial employees, who were not locked out but refused to go through janitor picket lines prior to the court order.

Others will return to short-hour days next week, but those employed in the school district's administrative centre and supply-maintenance depot will not go back because picketing is permitted at those locations on a 24-hour basis.

Coach Lines Negotiates With Drivers

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers' Union is in the midst of negotiations for bus drivers and inside staff employees of Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

The contract will be the first negotiated since the bus company was bought by the provincial government in July, 1974.

The union has two separate contracts with Vancouver Island Coach Lines — one covering about 75 office workers and the second covering about 175 drivers.

The previous contracts expired at the end of February and negotiating sessions are scheduled for this week for both contracts.

The CBRTGW will start negotiations Friday with C and C Transportation Co., Victoria's only unionized taxi firm, for a new contract covering about 50 drivers.

The previous contract for the drivers which expired Monday, ensured them 50 per cent of a day's receipts.

TRASH HALTS RECYCLING

A University of Victoria student recycling project has been halted until the strike-lockout ends because the recycling bins are being used for other garbage.

Project head Donavon Thorndick said the bins placed around the campus for recycable material is being used for all types of garbage from people's homes.

Gov't Aids Trident Opposition

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government has contributed $1,000 to a group campaigning against the proposed Trident submarine base at Bangor, Wash.

A statement from Pacific Life says the group raised $1,400 to send a delegate to the conference for a nuclear-free Pacific at Suva, Fiji, April 1 to 6 and Premier Dave Barrett sent $1,000.

The premier earlier promised to match the first $1,000 raised for the trip.

The statement says Lil D'Easum of Victoria, a member of the Voice of Women, and author James Douglass of Vancouver will be the B.C. delegates at the conference. Laurie Raymond will represent the Seattle branch of the Pacific Life community at the conference.

The Trident submarines using the base would use the Strait of Juan de Fuca between Vancouver Island and Washington State.

Reds Hit Malaysia Military

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI) — Malaysia's National Security Council Monday reported a series of explosions near military installations in various parts of the country and said they were the work of "Communist elements."

"No damage or injuries resulted from all these incidents," a statement by the council said. An investigation was under way.

The first explosion occurred at about 5 a.m. near the army camp at Simpang Renggam in Johore state, 250 miles south of Kuala Lumpur. Two Communist flags were found near the scene of the explosion, the statement said.

Two explosions were set off near the Sebatang Karah military camp in Port Dickson, a seaside resort 50 miles south of Kuala Lumpur.

Another explosion was near the capital's air force base and two others near the army complex in Batu Uban on Penang Island, 250 miles to the north.

MANHUNT through the Mary Hill Road suburb in Port Coquitlam lasted all night as RCMP hunted four suspects from an abortive bank robbery Monday. Two More To Help Prosecutor

The regional prosecutor's office will return to its full complement by June, Chief Prosecutor J. W. Anderson said Monday.

Two lawyers will arrive in Victoria within the next two months, Anderson said.

Scott Marshall, who was called to the bar two years ago, will arrive about May 1 from Burnaby.

Richard Anthony of Edmonton, a former drugs prosecutor and recently director of an Alberta drug and alcoholism foundation, will follow a month later.

East-Coast Vessels Bypass Struck Ports

MONTREAL (CP) — Ships bound for three St. Lawrence River ports paralysed by a longshoremen's strike are changing course for other Atlantic Coast ports, a National Harbours Board spokesman said Monday.

Canadian ships headed for Montreal, Quebec City or Trois-Rivieres, Que., are being rerouted to Halifax and St. John's, Nfld., while foreign vessels would probably dock in Boston, the spokesman said.

The strike by 2,200 longshoremen began Monday when the Maritime Employers Association (MEA) failed to meet demands by the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) to reopen contract negotiations on the issue of job security.

Fernand Boudreault, ILA secretary-treasurer, said the union presented its demands to government-appointed mediator Charles Poirier Monday and "we're currently awaiting a reaction."

The MEA said it has no intention of "giving in to a hold-up," and that a conciliation report rejected by the ILA last Friday had offered the men the "most generous job security program of any port in the world."

If they decide to accept the report, "the longshoremen will be guaranteed minimum revenues of between $17,000 and $20,000 a year," MEA President Arnold E. Masters said.

The report, prepared by Chief Judge Alan Gold of Quebec provincial court, recommended schedules of 1,600 work hours in 40 weeks for Montreal longshoremen, 1,400 hours in 35 weeks for those in Quebec City and 1,200 hours in 30 weeks for Trois-Rivieres dock workers.

The men, whose contract expired Dec. 31, earn a base rate of $5.10 and work a 40-hour week 37 weeks a year.

Montreal longshoremen last staged a legal strike in 1967. An illegal eight-week walkout in 1972 was ended by federal backto-work legislation.

Indians' Woes Commuters Told

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Sign-carrying members of the Squamish Indian Band had a message for commuters on Greater Vancouver's northern slopes today.

They told rush-hour motorists at the north end of Lions Gate Bridge that the bridge is built on Squamish Land and the Indians want it back.

The land involved is part of 133 acres cut-off from the band's Capilano Reserve as a result of the McKenna-McBride Commission which was set up in 1912 to reallocate Indian lands.

The demonstrators handed out information pamphlets saying that the band has fought its cut-off land claim for more than 40 years and band chief Joe Mathias added that only recently has it obtained support from the Union of British Columbia Indian Chiefs and others.

The demonstration came on the eve of a special meeting of the union's chiefs, which is to begin in Terrace Wednesday to work out strategy on the Indian fight for a return of some 36,000 acres cut from 23 B.C. reserves.

Lifting Subsidy On Bottled Milk Raises Food Bill

The Canadian Press

With the removal of the two-cent-a-quart federal subsidy for bottled milk announced in March by the government, milk prices increased in four cities, a cross-country food basket survey by The Canadian Press shows.

Vancouver, Edmonton and Charlottetown were the only three cities of 12 where milk prices dropped slightly from February. Prices rose in St. John's, Nfld., Saint John, N.B., Quebec City and Montreal.

Costs remained stable in five cities at month-end when federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan announced that there would be substantial increases in prices on dairy products, particularly butter and skim milk powder.

Spiralling costs on dairy products were somewhat sweetened by the biggest decline in sugar prices since last November's all-time average high of $3.75 for a five-pound bag.

The most significant drop from February's sugar prices was at Montreal where the cost slipped 74 cents from $2.54 to $1.85.

The 17 items in the market basket are priced in the same supermarkets on the last Tuesday of the month.

They include one pound of sirloin-tip roast beef, all-beef wieners, centre-cut loin of pork, top-grade chicken, ground chuck steak, frozen cod fillets, top-grade butter, tomatoes, frozen green peas, drip coffee and apples.

Also included are one dozen medium eggs, one quart of whole milk, a 24-ounce loaf of sliced, white bread, 10 pounds of first-grade potatoes, five pounds of white granulated sugar and a 24-ounce can of halved pears.

Some findings, compared with February as well as the total price in March, 1974:

Halifax: Butter was down to 99 cents a pound, a decrease of three cents. Sugar dropped 54 cents to $2.05 and coffee was seven cents less at $1.12. Tomatoes slipped 29 cents to 34 cents a pound. Wieners were down 15 cents to 84 cents and chicken dropped eight cents to 88 cents. Codfish was up eight cents to $1.17. The March total of $14.86 was $2.62 higher than February's total of $12.24. This did not include apples. The March, 1974, total was $16.77.

St. John's, Nfld.: Potatoes jumped 31 cents to 89 cents. Chicken was down 12 cents to 85 cents. Lower sugar prices were reflected in the 40-cent drop to $2.39. Milk took a one-cent hike to 61 cents a quart. The March food basket total was $12.50 compared with the previous month of $12.70. Items not listed were sirloin roast, pork, tomatoes, peas and pears. The March, 1974, total was $16.78.

Quebec City: Sugar remained at the same price of $2.59 as in February. Milk was up three cents to 51 cents. Tomatoes moved down 10 cents to 49 cents and chicken dropped four cents to 79 cents. Sirloin roast was up 11 cents to $2.09 and butter took another price increase to 99 cents, up four cents. Potatoes rose 15 cents to 59 cents, as did apples which were up four cents to 27 cents. The basket total for March was $15.73, a rise of $1.67 from February's price of $14.06. In March, 1974, the total was $15.98. Items not included were bread, peas and pears.

Montreal: A large drop in the price of sirloin roast was noted with 30 cents off the previous month's price bringing it down to $1.68. Wieners rose to 96 cents, up five cents and pork dropped 14 cents to $1.59. Chicken climbed four cents to 85 cents and eggs were up six cents to 77 cents. Milk prices were up three cents to 51 cents. Bread was down two cents to 38 cents, as were tomatoes which dropped 20 cents to 39 cents. The total cost of last month's basket was $14.89, compared to February when it was $16.02. The total in March, 1974, was $15.05.

Ottawa: Roast sirloin also dropped 30 cents a pound to $1.68. Wieners jumped 16 cents to $1.05. Chicken was down 10 cents to 63 cents and chuck was 59 cents, a drop of 29 cents. Eggs dropped three cent to 67 cents, but butter was up four cents to 98 cents. Sugar went to $1.85, a drop of 65 cents. The month's total was $13.74. In February the total was $15.97. Peas and pears were items not recorded. The total in March, 1974 was $15.21.

Toronto: Chuck took an upward swing of 45 cents to $1.24. However, sirloin roast was down 10 cents to $1.78. Pork declined 10 cents to $1.18 and wieners were down eight cents to 86 cents. Eggs were up three cents to 75 cents and coffee dropped to $1.19, a decrease of 46 cents. Sugar was $2.05, a drop of 64 cents. Items not recorded were peas, pears and apples. The total March food basket was $14.55 compared with the February total of $15.40. Last March's total was $14.59.

Winnipeg: Pork took a substantial gain, rising 57 cents to $1.95. Sirloin roast also was up 20 cents to $1.98. Chuck was lower by 10 cents to 98 cents and tomatoes climbed 27 cents to 85 cents. Sugar dipped 46 cents to $2.16. Coffee at $1.24 was down four cents. The March total was $15.02. It was $15.77 in February and $15.21 in March, 1974. Codfish, pears and bread were not itemized.

Regina: Eggs went up three cents to 78 cents. All meat except pork which was up six cents to $1.84, declined slightly or remained the same as the previous month. Sirloin roast was up one cent to $1.78 with chuck down one cent to 68 cents. Potatoes dropped six cents to 93 cents and tomatoes were down to 45 cents, a difference of 14 cents. The total for March's food basket was $15.97. In February it was $17.17. Last year's total was $15.51.

Edmonton: Coffee and sugar were both lower in price. Coffee, down 10 cents, was $1.15 and sugar was down 40 cents to $2.19. Sirloin roast at $1.75 was 10 cents lower as was pork at $1.25. Chicken climbed six cents to 85 cents and chuck rose 32 cents to $1.05. Eggs dropped eight cents to 84 cents and milk decreased by two cents to 46 cents. Butter was also down by four cents to $1. The total for March was $14.04 compared with $16.48 in February. The total for March, 1974, was $15.42.

DEAD SEA LION LEFT TO ROT

A dead 1,000-pound sea lion was towed away from Weir's Beach Sunday to a remote beach and then skinned by Gerald Langlais, owner of Weir's Beach Resort.

The hide, seven by 11 feet, will lie in the Langlais' living room after it has been cured, Mrs. Langlais said.

Langlais hopes a high tide will eventualy take it to sea.

The carcass was found washed up on Weir's beach Friday morning.

Colwood RCMP could find no one to remove the sea lion.

The Victoria SPCA and the provincial wildlife branch disclaimed responsibility because the carcass lay below high water mark. Cypress Disposal Ltd. would not risk sinking its heavy trucks in the sand.

PM Strike Comment Draws CMA's Ire

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Manufacturers' Association (CMA) today criticized Prime Ministter Trudeau for his telegram expressing support of striking asbestos workers at Thetford Mines, Que.

In a brief telegram to the prime minister, CMA executive director Keith Rapsey said: "The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is concerned that your expression of sympathy to one side in a strike at Thetford Mines will inevitably be interpreted as intervention in a labor dispute, an action which is appropriate only where the public interest is threatened."

The strike, which began March 16, involves about 3,000 asbestos workers and millworkers and is against Asbestos Corp. Ltd., Bell Asbestos Ltd., Lake Asbestos of Quebec Ltd. and Carey Canadian Ltd.

Draft Dodger Amnesty Over

Sign-ups rose to about 18,000 from 16,500 Sunday, a spokeswoman for the presidential clemency board reported.

The military, which dealt with 12,500 unpunished deserters, said its total of men processed at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., rose to 5,284 Monday from 5,253 Sunday with another 33 still being processed. There was no sign of a final rush, a press officer at the post said.

The justice department, which took applications from among 4,400 unconvicted draft evaders, said its total of sign-ups rose during the weekend to 603 from 589.

Steve Grossman, 28, of Chicago, a draft resister on the editorial board of Amex Canada in Toronto, said the program was "a miserable failure."

The American Civil Liberties Union, which has opposed the program, called it "a depressing failure."

"It has been rejected by more than 80 per cent of those eligible," Grossman said. "We have opposed every extension of this punitive plan and we're glad to see it end. It was nothing more than a public relations game to let President Ford pardon former president Richard Nixon and punish war resisters."

An estimated 100,000 were eligible for the program.

The clemency board's operation was the largest part of the three-way program, offering a chance for conditional clemency and pardon or outright pardon for those convicted of draft evasion or punished for desertion during the Vietnam war era.

CN Phasing Out Alaska Cruises

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian National Steamships' Alaska cruise service will come to an end after the 1975 season, the company announced Monday.

The age of the cruise ship, the SS Prince George, and operating losses were cited as the main factor in a news release from CN. The 28-year-old vessel, which began the Alaska run in June, 1948, is nearing the end of its useful life in this type of service, the company said.

C. F. Armstrong, regional vice-president, said that to remain competitive in this market would require a new ship which could cost as much as $30 million.

The Prince George was built at the Yarrows shipyard in Victoria for $3 million.

"The company's huge capital requirements for new equipment and plant expansion on the mountain region and in the Vancouver terminal rule out such a big investment in a new cruise ship," Armstrong said.

Operating costs have been rising steadily and the service now is losing money, he said. About 120 employees will be affected by the termination.

During the 1975 cruise season the 260-passenger ship will make 21 regular eight-day sailings from Vancouver to Alaska, plus a special charter sailing at the end of the season.

CN launched its Alaska cruise service in 1916. It now competes with seven other cruise ship operators.

Hospital Takeover Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Hospital Employees' Union has suggested a systematic program of negotiations by the government for "purchase and, if necessary, through fair expropriation," takeover of all private hospital facilities.

The union's brief, presented to Health Minister Dennis Cocke and released Monday, also calls for interim amendements to the British Columbia Hospital Act "to ensure enforcement of the laws and regulations established for private hospitals."

The HEU also asks for new guidelines for hospital inspectors and upgrading of private hospital standards "to the level of . . . care in public extended-care institutions."

The union had submitted a brief on private hospitals that included criticism of conditions at the King George Hospital in Surrey to Cocke early in March.

Stays of Proceedings A-G's Right: Judge

VANCOUVER (CP) — The attorney-general has absolute discretion to instruct counsel to enter stay of proceedings, a Supreme Court judge says in response to criticism that the Crown enters too many stays of proceedings.

"And the courts, including the Supreme Court of B.C., are powerless to interfere with the exercise of such discretion," Mr. Justice Richard Anderson said in a written statement handed down last week.

Mr. Justice Anderson handed down the decision when he dismissed a writ of prohibition against three men charged with theft of more than $200. If granted, the writ would have forbidden the provincial court from hearing the charge.

The Supreme Court judge said Mervyn Davis, one of three persons charged with theft over $200, was committed for trial in the county court. Then, the Crown entered a stay of proceedings in both provincial and county courts.

"Later, a second information identical to the first information was sworn in provincial court," the judge said.

Davis then made application to Mr. Justice Anderson to prohibit the provincial court judge from proceeding with the new information, maintaining it was invalid.

In denying the application, Mr. Justice Anderson said the provincial court judge had no jurisdiction to give the accused an election or to hold a preliminary inquiry or to commit him for trial in the county court.

"The only court that had any jurisdiction to try the applicant (Davis) was the provincial court and the accused should have been tried by a provincial court judge," he said.

Mr. Justice Anderson said curing mere procedural error by the use of a stay of proceedings is a sensible and efficient method of administrating justice.

"It is not an usurpation of powers of the court. Furthermore there is no prejudice to anyone."

SIKHS CLASH IN TEMPLE KNIFE FIGHT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police say fighting broke out and one man was stabbed in the Sikh Temple Sunday after dissident East Indians, reported to be Maoists, interrupted a prayer meeting.

Police said the disruptive faction claimed the temple was not taking a militant stand in the community.

At least four people wer injured, with cuts and bruises on their faces.

Ajaih Singh Duhra, 28, was taken to hospital and released.

Witnesses said the invasion involved only about 35 people of 800 at the temple and lasted only a few minutes.

Fishermen Again Demand Strict Boat Safety Laws

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union sent a second telegram Monday to federal Transport Minister Jean Marchand asking him to bring fishing vessels under Canada Shipping Act regulations.

The union said Marchand has not replied to a similar telegram sent March 26.

S far 14 fishermen are believed drowned since the opening of the West Coast herring season March 16. Sixteen boats have gone down or capsized in that time.

"How many more men will die before the minister recognizes his duty?" union president Homer Stevens asked in a news release.

"The widows and fishermen of the herring fleet are now understandably angry in the face of such a tragic season that no concern or action has been forthcoming from Ottawa."

The union says that inspection of fishing boats for seaworthiness as would take place under shipping act regulations would help to curb accidents.

CHRIST and MOSES

Many people in so-called Christian nations seem to have the belief that Christ's teachings are contrary to those of Moses; that the teachings of Moses were cruel and unyielding, an eye for an eye and a life for a life, while the teachings of Christ are love and compassion, which is generally misconstrued to mean soft sentimentality.

The laws Moses gave to the people of Israel he said he got from God, and the people acknowledged that they were from God: "And Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all these words which the Lord commanded him. And all the people answered together, and said, 'All that the Lord hath spoken we will do' " (Ex. 19: 7, 8). At that time Israel was one nation of twelve tribes. Some time later when the people became dissatisfied with being governed by judges, and wanted a king, God gave them a king and fixed the line of succession in the tribe of Judah (1st Sam. 8:4-7; 2nd Sam. 3:9, 10; Jer. 33:21). Later, because of heavy taxation by the king on the ten tribes, represented by Ephraim (1st Kings 12: 13, 14), the ten separated from Judah and formed a nation of their own with their own king, and God said the division was of Him (1st Kings 12; 20, 24). The Anglo-Saxon-Celtic nations are the descendants of the ten tribes. At the time of Christ's return the two sections are to come together as one nation again, with Christ as King (Ezek. 37: 15-28).

In Exodus, Leviticus and Deuteronomy we have recorded for us God's many commands to His people through Moses. These commands were given to develop the people, not only individually but as a nation, and to prepare them as a nation to receive the promised Messiah when He should come. They were also to protect them as a nation from falling into the corruption of the nations around them.

The history of both the ten tribes and of the two tribes is one of forsaking God's law, with brief interludes from time to time when they partially repented and partially returned to it. And this course they are still following today. God's law is no longer recognized in our Anglo-Saxon-Celtic lands and in Judah and hence we are experiencing nothing but corruption, trouble, war, poverty, crime, ill-health and sorrow.

God, then, was the Author of the law given through Moses.

Christ said: "As my Father hath taught me, I speak these things" (John 8:28). "For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak" (John 12:49).

God, then, was the author of the teachings of Christ.

If the teachings of Christ contradict the teachings of Moses then God lied to one or the other, but the Scriptures say that God cannot lie: "In hope of eternal life, which God, that cannot lie, promised before the world began" (Titus 1:2). "God is not a man, that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent; hath he said, and shall he not do it? or hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good?" (Numbers 23:19).

Nor is He a God of confusion (1st Cor. 14:33).

The ordinances of the law given through Moses, that is, the sacrificial rites and ceremonies, Paul said were abolished by Christ, for the simple reason that Christ by laying down His life daily in the service of God provided a new and better sacrifice — Himself — a new and better way. "Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances" (Eph. 2:15). "Then verily the first covenant (the law) had also ordinances of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary . . . which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience . . . but Christ being come an high priest of good thigs to come . . . who through the eternal spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God" (Hebrews 9: 1, 9, 11, 14).

Christ did not abolish the law as it pertained to the principles of righteousness and justice, nor the moral laws, nor the laws pertaining to the health and welfare of the people. Morals are not a matter of fashion. If it was wrong to lie in Moses' day it was wrong to lie in Christ's day and it is wrong in our day. If it was wrong to steal in Moses' day it was wrong to steal in Christ's day, and in our day, and both Christ and Moses taught this.

Christ said, "Do not kill' (Luke 18:20). But in saying this He said He was quoting Moses who had given it as a commandment to Israel as part of God's law to them (Exodus 20:13). This is a commandment to the individual and it does not in any sense have application to the nation as a nation and those therein in positions of responsibility in the discharge of the duties of governing that nation.

Christ said: "If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead" (Luke 16:31). "For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me" (John 5:46). And the Apostle Paul, without question a faithful follower of Christ, said: "Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those which the prophets and Moses did say should come" (Acts 26:22).

Christ bore testimony to the life and experiences of Noah (Matt. 24:37), to Jonah (Matt. 12:39), to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob (Luke 13:28), to Solomon (Matt. 6:29), to Elijah (Matt. 11:14) and others, as did also the apostles in their epistles.

Clearly both Old and New Testaments comprise one book, the word of one Author — God — and His revelation of Himself to man. "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only truth God, and Jesus Christ, who thou hast sent" (John 17:3).

Lebanon Repulses New Israel Drive

Times News Services

Lebanon said its gunners repulsed a new Israeli mine-laying thrust today and that a Lebanese farmer was killed by shrapnel in an ensuing one-hour artillery duel.

Israel, however, said: "The border area has been quiet and there have been no incidents all day."

A communique issued in Beirut said a 20-man Israeli patrol punched about 100 yards into southern Lebanon for the second straight day to lay mines near the small border village of Bustan.

There are a number of Palestinian guerrilla camps in the Bustan area which Israel says are used to launch attacks on the Jewish state.

"Our artillery positions went into action at once, scoring direct hits and forcing the enemy patrol to pull out," the communique said.

Meanwhile, the United States has recalled its ambassadors to Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria to help reassess U.S. policy in the Middle East.

Egypt Monday became the first of the nations involved to make a formal request for resumption of the Geneva peace conference, but diplomatic sources in Cairo said the talks would not start again until the United States comes up with new ideas on peace in the region and the Arab nations agree on how to proceed.

In Jerusalem, government sources said U.S. Secretary-of-state Henry Kissinger and Israeli officials were studying the possibility of talks between Israel and Egypt at some site outside the Middle East.

Cairo sources said Egypt appears to be betting on strong U.S. pressure on Israel to agree to withdraw its troops from two strategic mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields in the Sinai.

In exchange, the sources said, Egypt would give assurances of no military hostilities rather than a formal non-belligerency declaration, a difference in terms that was a major factor forcing Kissinger to call off the talks March 22.

Announcing the recall of the ambassadors, a state department spokesman also said Kissinger will fly to Palm Springs this week to consult with vacationing President Ford on new ideas for Middle East accord.

MacEachen Stays Cool On Role in Mideast

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S. apparently failed to get any firm commitment about Canada's future role in Middle East peacekeeping after a "frank" meeting between External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen and Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger here Monday.

Kissinger praised Canada's peacekeeping activities in flowery language after the two-and-a-quarter hour luncheon meeting.

But MacEachen told reporters that "any further suggestion" would be considered carefully by Ottawa.

He did not, at least in public, give any indication that Canada would accept such a suggestion.

However, the inference was that some suggestion had been made by Kissinger.

It may have been merely that he hoped Canada would continue to keep troops in the United Nation force guarding the fragile truce now in effect between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

Kissinger said later he had given MacEachen an outline "of the various possibilities" for strategy in seeking a settlement at a meeting he described as "cordial."

"We attach great importance to the role of peacekeeping by Canada in the Middle East," Kissinger told reporters.

He said, too, that he had expressed to MacEachen the appreciation of the U.S. government for "the extraordinary role Canada has played in peacekeeping around the world."

Neither Kissinger nor MacEachen indicated that "possibilities" were discussed.

Kissinger, meanwhile, agreed to visit Canada, possibly in early May.

Acceptance of an invitation to come to Ottawa was announced by MacEachen as he and Dr. Kissinger talked briefly with reporters after the "working lunch."

Canada first invited Kissinger to visit Ottawa to talk about the wide range of bilateral issues between the two countries in September, 1973, shortly after he became secretary-of-state.

However, the Middle East war that fall and subsequent international crises resulted in several postponements of scheduled meetings.

Delicate Touch of Tragedy

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

The major difference between Neil Simon as a writer of popular comedies and his contemporaries in the same line of work is that in the best of his plays Simon frequently touches a nerve centre.

At Langham Court Theatre this week Victoria Theatre Guild is presenting Simon's The Prisoner of Second Avenue and it moved me more often toward sadness than laughter.

That is a fact that implies no criticism of the production which is among the best offered at Langham Court or anywhere in the city over the past year.

The comment actually is a compliment to director and cast for moving some of us as much as they made us laugh; it is an observation on the play itself which, to say the very least, is a rueful commentary on aspects of life in a modern American metropolis.

Simplicity is the essence of the story line. With little modulation in the course of two acts, it follows the downward fortunes of Mel Edison and his wife Edna, prisoners of a way of life that is epitomized by their 16th floor New York apartment in which nothing works properly and everything intrudes.

Their relationship with each other, her warmth and devotion that seeps through a rather tough and crackly surface image, his progression from fear and rage to hoplessness and a final what-the-hell type of submission, are expertly done.

The rest of the cast had one scene which is bitter-funny and it is competently handled by Robert Price, Margaret Martin, Mary Jane Lewis and Ginny Carter as Mel's family who have come to help as long as the price is not too high.

Harvey M. Miller of UVic theatre has directed not only with technical fluency but with a sensitive ear for the overtones and ironic shadings.

At the same time he has not underdone the comic aspects of the various scenes and has kept a sense of progression, of tempo, even though the climax is a small thing.

$2,475,000 PRICE TAG

Marguerite, Land Bought by Province

FORMER CPR ticket office and shipping terminal, included in the government's package deal, was built in 1919 and designed by Francis Rattenbury, the architect responsible for the legislative buildings.

The provincial government has purchased the Princess Marguerite and 8.7 acres of Marathon Realty property at the Inner Harbor for a total price of $2,475,000.

Premier Barrett announced the purchase today and said the Marguerite will begin a regular summer season of sailings to Seattle starting on the Victoria Day weekend.

Barrett said he hopes to see the Marguerite restored to an appropriate Victorian style and to make the trip to and from Seattle an attraction in itself.

Canadian Pacific abandoned the summer service last fall because of financial losses and Barrett said the government may have to increase fares if the service continues to be a losing proposition.

But the severe economic strain a termination of service would have placed on businesses in Victoria this summer made it imperative the government move to insure continuation of the ferry service.

Along with the 27-year-old ferry, the government has acquired several acres of land and two federal leases in the harbor area, also formerly controlled by Marathon, the real estate arm of Canadian Pacific.

The purchase price is $1,375,000 lower than the $3,850,000 estimated value placed on the package by Marathon and is substantially less than Marathon's last official asking price of $2,950,000.

Asked what kind of pressure the government used to bring the price down, Barrett said the government indicated to Marathon that "it didn't want to have to go through the expropriation route."

Included in the package are all the equipment and furnishings of the Marguerite; the old ticket office now housing the Royal London Wax Museum; leases for the steamship operation; the old wharf; the lands between Menzies and Oswego; all the buildings for the steamship operation; and lands west of the leased area.

Barrett said the government will continue leases to commercial operations occupying parts of the newly-purchased pdoperty.

Those leases, which net $65,000 annual profit, are held by Pacific Undersea Gardens, the Wax Museum, Pacific Logging, Air West Airlines, Tony Burton sailing school and the city of Victoria which

DIAL-A-DUEL FOR HONOR

The politest duel in history was fought in defence of Queen Elizabeth today.

It took place in a telephone call between Patrick Crean, Stratford's fencing master, and William Hamilton, the British politician who wrote what Crean describes as a "scurrilous" book on the royal family.

Crean is teaching stage fencing in Victoria and described the phone "duel" between here and Toronto, where Hamilton is promoting his book, as:

"It was really a very delightful 10 minutes. From the start we called each other Paddy and Willie, all rather English, what?"

Crean said although he was a royalist, he was not a royalist oaf.

"I rather liked the man," he said. "It's just that we have two ideologies.

Crean said he and Hamilton have a luncheon date in London some time later this year.

"The dice were loaded in his favor," Crean said of the verbal match. "The fact remains he's a man of words and it's a hell of a way to fight a duel."

Would-Be Bandit Ignored

A masked and armed man who tried to hold up three staff members as they left an Esquimalt beer parlor early today finally fled in a rage after being ignored by his would-be victims.

Clyde Ogilvie, manager of the Halfway House, 856 Esquimalt Rd., said he, tapman Ron Champion and waiter Terry Helmer, had just left the building about 2:30 a.m. to drive home when a man with a nylon stocking over his head and some sort of pistol in his hand ran up to them from a nearby service station.

The gunman ordered the trio back inside but they kept walking, telling him they were going home and that if he wanted in he should knock on the door.

For a few moments the three employees stood around while the gunman circled them, getting angrier by the moment. He finally fled across a parking lot.

Esquimalt police said today they are investigating the incident.

3 More Cities Topple in South

SAIGON (UPI—WP) — North Vietnamese troops and infantry today over-ran the Coastal cities of Qui Nhon, Tuy Hoa and Nha Trang as government defences crumbled and the threat to Saigon increased by the hour.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu abruptly cancelled a meeting with the U.S. chief of staff, Gen Frederick Weyand, President Ford's special envoy, on the eve of his departure for the United States. No public explanation was given.

At the same time militant Buddhist monks led by Thich Tri Quang, who led the struggle against President Ngo Dinh Diem, took to the streets for the first time in years with banners demanding Thieu's immediate resignation.

The monks were driven back into a pagoda by national police after a short march.

These and other developments signify rapidly mounting political trouble for Thieu as battlefield disasters multiply. Although he shows no present sign of giving in to his critics — whose numbers are increasing both on the right and left — his position is less secure with each passing day.

While government troops abandoned millions of dollars of U.S. equipment in their flight — some sources said more than $1 billion worth — the first plane of a U.S. emergency airlift arrived in Saigon

Daily Raps Critics

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

VANCOUVER — Irresponsible public criticism of educational policies by the B.C. Teachers Federation could undermine public confidence in education and lead to a backlash, Education Minister Eileen Dailly said Monday. (See other BCTF stories on Page 16.)

Speaking to a crowd of about 800 on the first day of the BCTF annual general meeting, Dailly said the federation should be careful how it voices its concerns.

"For example, public attacks on internal personnel matters within the department of education, do not serve the cause of education," she said.

The minister was referring to strong criticism by outgoing BCTF president Jim MacFarlan of her firing of members of the education department's research and development division earlier this year.

MacFarlan called for Dailly's resignation over the incident and reiterated his stand in his farewell address earlier Monday.

Dailly urged the federation to insure "that when it brings its case to the government that it truly reflects the views of the majority of its own members," a statement the teacher audience applauded.

MacFarlan countered the statement immediately after Dailly's speech by saying the federation is always careful to ensure that the majority's views be reflected.

The minister said that negative criticism could create "an undermining of public confidence in education itself and a public backlash which could not only undo the gains which we together have made in the last three years but could return us in B.C. to the worst features of what we had before."

Some Gas Already Up By Two Cents a Gallon

The guidelines apply to wholesale prices only but the two-cent increase was being passed along at the retail level.

First to increase their wholesale prices was Standard Oil (Chevron) and Gulf Oil Canada. All other companies are expected to increase their prices this week.

Standard increased its wholesale price of gasoline two cents a gallon but did not alter any other prices at this time.

Gulf Oil raised its gas price by 2.4 cents a gallon wholesale. This was still within the guideline because its price had been half a cent below a previous guideline.

In effect Gulf raised its price by the half cent it was previously allowed and then raised its prices an additional 1.9 cents a gallon. It raised prices by 2 cents a gallon for home heating oil, aviation gasoline and jet fuel. Diesel fuel went up 2.2 cents a gallon wholesale.

(The provincial guideline of a two-cent increase applies to gasoline and heating oil only. Meanwhile, federal guides continue on all petroleum products. Companies must justify any price increases in terms of increased costs.)

The increases raise the average price of gasoline in Victoria to 61.9 cents a gallon for regular and furnace oil jumps to 37.9 cents a gallon.

Retail prices vary from station to station.

One Gulf retailer said he was raising his price by three cents a gallon although the wholesale price increase had only been 2.4 cents. Most stations simply passed the wholesale increase along without alteration.

$6,000 UFO Study

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council has awarded a $6,000 grant to John W. Musgrave of Edmonton to finance an historical study of sightings of unidentified flying objects in Canada.

"It's not a put-on," said Paul-Emile Leblanc, head of the council's explorations program, in an interview today. "It's a serious study."

Musgrave has a master's degree in science and teaches at Athabasca University in Edmonton. He has been interested in UFOs for some time.

He intends to study newspaper clippings, journals and follow up with personal interviews with people who have sighted strange things in the sky.

The grant will cover his travelling expenses.

Canadian Killed On Cyprus

OTTAWA (CP) — Ian Patten, 29, a Canadian Forces captain who spent six weeks in Viet Cong captivity in 1973, was killed Tuesday while serving with Canadian peacekeeper in Cyprus.

The defence department said Patten, from Etobicoke, Ont., was killed by a bullet fired at his Nicosia hotel during shooting between Turkish- and Greek-Cypriots.

He was found in his room in the Ledra Palace hotel, which is occupied by the Canadian contingent to the UN force.

Nicosia was quiet today after the two-hour gun battle.

The shooting began around Nicosia international airport, closed since the Turkish invasion in July.

Greek-Cypriots and Turkish army troops face each other at close range there, and the firing rapidly spread throughout the capital.

The firing began when Greek national guard conscripts fired shots in the air to mark the 20th anniversary of the EOKA guerrilla uprising against the British colonial administration.

ICBC STRIKE VOTE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strike vote is being held among the 2,000 union employees at the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia.

A spokesman for the Office and Technical Employees Union, which represents the ICBC workers, said the vote was called in response to a company wage offer providing a 14-per-cent wage increase in a one-year contract.

Although negotiations have not broken down, he said the union felt it better to return to the bargaining table with a strong mandate from the membership, rejecting the company's offer.

Gunmen Held in Coquitlam Manhunt

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — Two men were taken into custody today following an overnight search for four suspects wanted in connection with Monday's abortive robbery of a bank at nearby Coquitlam and the wounding of two RCMP officers.

Police said the two men, one of whom was armed, wer arrested near the spot one of two cars used in the attempted holdup had been abandoned. They did not offer resistance.

Meanwhile, the RCMP pressed their search for the two other men. "It looks promising, but we've still got a hell of a long way to go," one RCMP official said. (See pictures, Page 28.)

The two RCMP officers were wounded — neither seriously — during a wild chase that followed the robbery attempt at a branch of the Bank of Montreal at nearby Coquitlam, about 15 miles east of Vancouver. Two other suspects also were at large.

Throughout the night about 50 RCMP accompanied by tracking dogs patrolled a cordoned-off area about two miles long by half a mile wide. Parts of the area were bathed in floodlights while many policemen carried rifles equipped with infra-red telescopic sights that permitted them to see in the dark.

Police concentrated in the area after daylight searches involving men, dogs and aircraft turned up a weapon belonging to one of the suspects and a wig and false mustache.

Police said the holdup attempt began when two armed men forced their way into the bank Monday morning as employees were arriving for work. Two accomplices remained outside, one acting as a lookout, the other ready to drive one of two getaway cars.

Brian Noble, the branch manager, notified police that he suspected something was wrong when he approached the bank. Several police cars arrived at the bank, but they were sighted by the robbbers who fled.

During the getaway, one man sprayed the bank parking lot with bullets from a semi-automatic M-1 carbine. Another attempted to take a male employee hostage, but was pushed away.

When the two suspect cars split up, police concentrated their pursuit on the vehicle from which shots were being fired. It contained the two men who entered the bank. Meanwhile, the second car, occupied by a lookout man and his driver, escaped down a sideroad.

The first car, hit by four police bullets, later was found abandoned near here and the two men were believed to have fled into the bush.

TOWN TALK

Points of principle or philosophy are rarely followed up when they're raised at municipal councils, but dangerous precedents are sometimes set when these points are ignored.

Mayor Art Young knows that, and warned other members of Esquimalt's finance committee, but his warning went unheeded at a recent committee meeting.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Esquimalt branch, asked the committee for partial tax deferral or an outright grant because of their bad financial situation and drastically-increased taxes.

Legion spokesman Gil Laurenson pointed out to aldermen that B.C.'s Municipal Act allows councils to grant money to organizations working for the betterment of the community.

And the Legion is, said Laurenson.

But so is Yarrows shipyard, Young protested.

"We wouldn't give them tax concessions if they were losing money hand over fist," he said.

But Young's tack missed its mark as other committee members recommended the Legion be given a $5,000 grant if an audit shows it is warranted.

Perhaps those members should not be surprised if they find future agendas bulging with briefs from other community-minded organizations — and businesses — clamoring for a piece of the community pie to cover the taste of red ink.

How can you tell it's spring in Victoria? The temperatures may be Celsius but the wind still has that Fahrenheit bite . . . a rash of Alberta and Saskatchewan licence plates breaks out, particularly at Beacon Hill . . . at lunchtime the touch football players shout and cavort their way along the cliff meadows of Dallas Road . . . smelt fishermen line the rails of Tillicum and Craigflower bridges and the rocks of Bath House Cove . . . it's boat painting time at Fishermen's Wharf — and in a million driveways.

Easter, time of joyous spiritual renewal, is also a bumper season for shoplifters that's second only to Christmas, according to a press release issued on behalf of Pinkerton's of Canada Ltd.

No trace of Christian tolerance is apparent, though, in the list of do's and don'ts which Frank Williams, the firm's sales director, suggests for the guidance of sales assistants and store proprietors.

His advice includes such gems as:

"Customers who act and look suspicious should be served quickly.

And, perhaps most heart-warming of all: "Use 'peepholes' in shelves or one-way mirrors to observe customers."

Well, merchants, it's too late to heed such invaluable tips this year but you'll know what to do next Easter. Meanwhile, it's comforting for the rest of us to know that we don't pass unnoticed when we enter your stores.

Among the first of Greater Victoria school secretaries to return to their offices after five weeks outside janitor picket lines was Isabella B. R. Wilson, of Central Junior Secondary.

She is an executive member of Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 947 school clerical and teacher aide unit, which decided to work up to two hours a day starting today before new picket schedule becomes effective.

By court order, janitors and maintenance men may not picket between 8-10 a.m. and 3-4 p.m., allowing secretaries in the secondary schools to work from 8-10 each morning.

Next week they will be joined by secretarial staff in the elementary schools, who normally are off this week for Easter.

Vancouver Island MP Hugh Anderson (Liberal — Comox-Alberni) is in Geneva attending the United Nations Law of the Sea Conference but by the sound of his first letter from the Swiss capital he might as well have stayed home.

"It was a miserable day in Geneva. After losing my luggage and taking a look at the price of meals . . . the thought occurred to me that if things were going to continue like this, I might as well catch the next plane back," he wrote.

He added that he was also disappointed with Ireland, for when he flew over it didn't show up green and appeared to be "just a few hills and lakes.

At the conclusion of his address to 200 local merchants at the Visitors Information Centre annual meeting last week, Pollen was besieged by well-wishers urging him to seek re-election in November.

Pollen, who has insisted he will not run in November, repeated "that's very kind" but did not indicate he had changed his mind.

He has been mayor four years.

One of the world's rarest photographs appears in the winter newsletter of World Wildlife Fund (Canada), published in Toronto and recently mailed to far-flung B.C.

The photo is of the Vancouver Island marmot, which is unknown anywhere else, and was taken by University of B.C. graduate student Douglas Heard in a sub-alpine region of the Nanaimo Lakes area while Heard was engaged in a two-year study leading to his thesis.

Daryll Hebert, regional wildlife biologist for the recreation and conservation department at Nanaimo, said he is one of the few to have seen the V. I. marmot, which he describes as chocolate-brown but otherwise similar to the hoary marmot of central B.C.

There are two or three colonies numbering about 100 specimens all told, and all make their homes above the tree line.

Females grow to about eight pounds and males about a pound heavier, Hebert said. The V. I. marmot is an endangered specie and there are penalties for trapping and killing the animal.

Everyone Goes Celsius But Weather Office

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria's weather went Celsius today and the conversion appeared to be going smoothly everywhere except at the weather office.

"Things are slightly chaotic around here today," said Allan McQuarrie, chief forecaster for the Victoria area.

"We have been urging everyone to think Celsius and not try to convert to fahrenheit — but we are busily converting ourselves."

Primarily because the weather office has no Celsius thermometers.

"The instruments we have (fahrenheit) are all perfectly good and we are not about to throw them away. The total investment is several thousands of dollars. As fahrenheit thermometers break we will replace them with Celsius thermometers. This process will take years."

But that is only part of the problem.

Computers are programmed for fahrenheit and all comparison figures from previous months and years are in fahrenheit temperatures.

"We are spending much of the day converting from one to the other. And we will continue to convert for months — probably two or three years.

"However, that's our internal problem. The public should just forget about fahrenheit and start thinking Celsius."

The weather office will give temperatures in Celsius only, starting today.

Meanwhile, new Celsius thermometers were getting a mixed reception in Victoria stores.

Eaton's sold a special shipment of 1,000 thermometers in less than four hours but that was due as much to the low price as an interest in conversion.

"People were buying them by the handful," said department manager Ken Daly.

The regular price was $3.49 but they went on sale at $1.49.

Jack Hutchins, manager of Simpsons-Sears, said interest in Celsius thermometers has been "only moderate" so far but sales are expected to increase now that the conversion has been compleed.

Most of the thermometers show both Celsius and fahrenheit readings.

The switch to Celsius is the first major step in a plan to convert Canada to the metric system by 1980.

Picket Pass For Severson

Saanich alderman Fred Severson has been told he will be given a pass to cross picket lines and attend Saanich council and Capital Region District meetings.

Tom Smith, spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said Severson was told Saturday he could have a pass.

"All he has to do is contact the union," Smith said.

Severson is a Victoria fireman and a member of the firefighters' union. He has refused to cross picket lines without a pass and had been refused one up to Saturday.

"He was originally refused a pass because he was one of the aldermen who voted to lock out the employees," said Jim Brett, president of Saanich local 374.

"The lockout was a complete abdication of responsibility by the aldermen."

Brett said Severson would be given a pass so he could carry out his responsibilities to the community and municipal employees.

"It's time the aldermen faced up to their responsibilities and start negotiatng with their employees in good faith," Brett said. 'We're trying to be reasonable. That is why Severson will be given a pass. Now it's time the employers acted reasonably to bring this dispute to a fair settlement."

Brett said all the municipal workers are asking is that they be given the same wages other employees doing the same kind of work in the community are being paid.

Poker Ban For Students

Poker has been banned in University of Victoria's Student Union Building.

After reports that student gambling in the building was on the increase, student Representative Assembly governors have outlawed the practice.

Varying reports said poker pots ranged from "nickel and dime" to $200-$300, said student president Clay Shold.

Gambling in licensed areas is illegal, said Shold.

Colwood Site Ruled Out For Oil Tanks

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

The Capital Regional Board will take a closer look at a property in View Royal and another in rural Saanich for relocation of downtown fuel storage tanks after learning a Colwood site has been ruled out.

Board chairman Jim Campbell confirmed today that Defence Minister James Richardson has flatly rejected the region's proposal to relocate the Inner Harbor tank farms on a 23-acre Colwood site west of Esquimalt Harbor owned by the Department of National Defence.

That site was the one most favored out of 11 potential sites considered in a report prepared by regional planners nine months ago. But it drew opposition from regional directors Earl Pallister and Pat Massey as well as some Colwood residents.

There are six commercial fuel tank depots scattered over about 20 acres of the Inner Harbor and the regional board favors moving them elsewhere so the land can be developed for open space and housing.

Campbell said the next two alternate sites considered most suitable will now have to be examined by the board.

In the planners' report, they are listed as:

Of the first possibility, the report says there is a well-protected harbor and adequate depth. A wharf already exists but if it could be used, would have to be extended to beyond the bounds of the booming grounds and the petroleum would have to be piped from the dock to the site, about half a mile.

Of the Burnside Road possibility the report says there is ample acreage but several houses would have to be displaced. Ships would use the same wharf as the first location but a 2½-mile pipeline would be needed.

Campbell had harsh words for Richardson over rejection of the DND site at Colwood, saying after two years he had never been able to communicate directly with the defence minister for a discussion of the question.

"He obviously had a pact with a cabinet colleague to give this surplus land for parks," Campbell said.

The word on the Colwood site came to the regional board by way of a letter from Senator Ray Perrault, who quoted a letter to him from Richardson.

Richardson told Perrault the defence department had repeatedly stated that space for the Inner Harbor tanks' relocation was not available on DND land.

The defence minister said that over the years about 80 acres of DND land has been transferred to the regional board and another 18 acres or so to the province.

His department is transferring an area of land to the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development which includes some if not all of the proposed tank farm site, Richardson wrote. The land is being transferred for the approaches to Fort Rodd Hill national park.

He also said that under no circumstances could the DND accept integration of civilian refuelling installations with the navy depot already on the property.

"Security and other operational needs make such a suggestion impracticable."

Campbell described the latter explanation as "absolutely ridiculous." The regional board chairman said he understands the entire fuel supply system for the military in Halifax, for example, is a commercial operation.

The regional board knew the property transfer was under way. What it was asking for was reconsideration of the matter, Campbell said.

Where surplus federal lands are being disposed of, local needs should get paramount consideration, he added.

Campbell said there has been a regretable notion that what the region is trying to do is build a tank farm. What the board is trying to do is restore to a much more important urban use the Inner Harbor land now used for tank farms.

"That land has tremendous potential and sooner or later those tanks will have to come out."

Doomsday Threat Protest Planned

By ELEANOR BOYLE
Times Staff

A Survival Committee of Victorians has been formed to take positive action to stop construction of "doomsday machines" 50 miles south of B.C.

The group was formed Monday night to try to halt the U.S. government's proposed Trident nuclear submarine base in Bangor, Wash., on the Hood Canal.

Demonstrations with placards and guerrilla theatre in the Inner Harbor Sunday will be the committee's first public protest.

Members include representatives of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches, the Citizens' Association to Save the Environment, the World Federalists, the Voice of Women, the Pacific Life Community, and the Quaker Society of Friends.

The committee will operate from the office of 202-1029 Douglas St.

Sunday's demonstration will be held in conjunction with the blessing of the Pacific Trollers' Association fishing fleet at 1:30 p.m.

"Use of Canadian waters to operate these doomsday machines represents a horrendous violation of Canadian sovereignty and neutrality," said Rupert Downing, committee spokesman.

He said the nuclear bases would send submarines heavily equipped with nuclear arms into surrounding waters including Canadian.

"They are specifically designed to start war," he said.

He added the base would make B.C. a prime target in any future military conflict.

"The U.S. navy has determined that B.C. is an expendable area," said Downing.

Information obtained from the publication Defense Monitor showed the U.S. government has southern B.C. mapped out as "something like unnecessary civilian surplus," he said.

Ferries Afoul, Islands Isolated

Many Gulf Island residents are without ferry service as a result of Sunday's vicious storm.

Some of them were trying to cross to the mainland on the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen run today, compounding the traffic problem.

There were three-hour waits at the Swartz Bay terminal this morning with two-lane lineups reaching to half way between Tryon and McDonald Park Roads.

Officials could not say whether traffic would be cleared by tonight.

The Queen of Tsawwassen was knocked out of commission Sunday alongside the dock at Long Harbor on Salt Spring Island.

A ferry spokesman said her propeller was damaged, probably by a log. She has been taken to the provincial government's drydock on the mainland for repairs.

This eliminates the ferry service between Long Harbor, Pender, Mayne, Saturna, Galiano and Tsawwassen.

The Queen of Tsawwassen was replacing the Sechelt Queen, which is also in drydock having plates in her forepeak repaired. The plates were buckled during an earlier storm.

The spokesman said no estimate of how long the ferry service would be cut off could be given until an engineer's report was received.

The Vesuvius-Crofton run is also a storm victim because the storm sank the floating platoon that supports the dock at the Vesuvius terminal.

The spokesman said there could be no estimate of how long it would take to refloat the pontoon.

He said the Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen traffic should be reduced to normal by the end of today.

Meanwhile, six Victorians who rode out the storm in a 29-foot sloop are expected to reach Victoria tonight unharmed.

Their mother, Mrs. Richard Ramsay of 1512 Brooke, said Wellan Rt's inboard engine was damaged in the storm, slowing down the progress of the boat, which was expected to reach Sidney Spit Monday night.

Aboard the boat are the Ramsays' son, Rick; their son and daughter-in-law, Kenneth and Alice; Ronald Ramsay and the men's sisters, Mrs. Valerie Biddlecomb and Lonia Findley.

Mrs. Ramsay said the boat's anchor line was snapped by the wind as they weathered the storm near Tumbo Island, off the southeast tip of Saturna Island. They had sailed there, changing course shortly after setting out for Friday Harbor on San Juan Island from Oak Bay Marina.

The boat grounded twice during the storm as she was tossed about in 25-foot waves, whipped by winds up to 70 miles an hour.

"It was really something that they got through," Mrs. Ramsay said, "They're pretty competent and level-headed but they probably did a lot of praying."

Meanwhile, the body of Arthur Winchester, 48, of Edmonton, was washed ashore Monday at English Bay on the mainland. He was one of seven people aboard two boats that capsized Sunday in the Fraser River.

The bodies of Joseph Dann, 33, also of Edmonton, and his son Joe, 13, were recovered earlier.

Still missing are Lorraine Bartlett, about 30, of Vancouver, and Jack Payne, 47, of Edmonton.

Naval Exercise Cut Short

Three Esquimalt-based destroyers are returning to their home port five weeks earlier than planned due to the scaling down of an international naval exercise off the Philippines.

An armed forces spokesman said today HMCS Terra Nova, HMCS Restigouche and HMCS Kootenay will arrive in late April instead of their scheduled return date of June 4.

The destroyers and the support ship HMCS Provider were to have exercised with American and Philippine vessels. "The whole thing has been scaled down," the spokesman said, "There is to be no anti-submarine aspect so there is really no reason for our ships to take part."

He said he could not comment on why the exercise had been drastically reduced or if the trouble in Vietnam was a contributing factor.

After the exercise the four ships were to have made calls at Hong Kong, in South Korea and Japan. These have now been cancelled.

The spokesman said the Provider will remain with the three other destroyers, returning with them May 8.

FINAL EDITION

91st YEAR, No. 245 — VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 1975 — 15 CENTS DAILY, 30 CENTS SATURDAY

$2,475,000 PRICE TAG

Marguerite, Land Bought by Province

FORMER CPR ticket office and shipping terminal, included in the government's package deal, was built in 1919 and designed by Francis Rattenbury, the architect responsible for the legislative buildings.

The provincial government has purchased the Princess Marguerite and 8.7 acres of Marathon Realty property at the Inner Harbor for a total price of $2,475,000.

Premier Barrett announced the purchase today and said the Marguerite will begin a regular summer season of sailings to Seattle starting on the Victoria Day weekend.

Barrett said he hopes to see the Marguerite restored to an appropriate Victorian style and to make the trip to and from Seattle an attraction in itself.

Canadian Pacific abandoned the summer service last fall because of financial losses and Barrett said the government may have to increase fares if the service continues to be a losing proposition.

But the severe economic strain a termination of service would have placed on businesses in Victoria this summer made it imperative the government move to insure continuation of the ferry service.

Along with the 27-year-old ferry, the government has acquired several acres of land and two federal leases in the harbor area, also formerly controlled by Marathon, the real estate arm of Canadian Pacific.

The purchase price is $1,375,000 lower than the $3,850,000 estimated value placed on the package by Marathon and is substantially less than Marathon's last official asking price of $2,950,000.

Asked what kind of pressure the government used to bring the price down, Barrett said the government indicated to Marathon that "it didn't want to have to go through the expropriation route."

Included in the package are all the equipment and furnishings of the Marguerite; the old ticket office now housing the Royal London Wax Museum; leases for the steamship operation; the old wharf; the lands between Menzies and Oswego; all the buildings for the steamship operation; and lands west of the leased area.

Barrett said the government will continue leases to commercial operations occupying parts of the newly-purchased property.

Those leases, which net $65,000 annual profit, are held by Pacific Undersea Gardens, the Wax Museum, Pacific Logging, Air West Airlines, Tony Burton sailing school and the city of Victoria which

Air Canada Vote

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the International Association of Machinists expressed optimism today that 7,500 members employed by Air Canada would ratify a tentative agreement giving them pay increases of about 25 per cent over two years.

2 Ulster Slayings

BELFAST (Reuter) — Two people were shot dead in incidents in Northern Ireland Monday night.

Seoul Protest

SEOUL (Reuter)—Riot police fired tear gas for the second day running today to break up a march by stone-throwing students as anti-government protests grew in several Korean universities and colleges here.

ICBC Strike Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strike vote is being held among the 2,000 union employees at the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia.

A spokesman for the Office and Technical Employees Union, which represents the ICBC workers, said the vote was called in response to a company wage offer providing a 14-per-cent wage increase in a one-year contract.

DIAL-A-DUEL FOR HONOR

The politest duel in history was fought in defence of Queen Elizabeth today.

It took place in a telephone call between Patrick Crean, Stratford's fencing master, and William Hamilton, the British politician who wrote what Crean describes as a "scurrilous" book on the royal family.

Crean is teaching stage fencing in Victoria and described the phone "duel" between here and Toronto, where Hamilton is promoting his book, as:

"It was really a very delightful 10 minutes. From the start we called each other Paddy and Willie, all rather English, what?"

Crean said although he was a royalist, he was not a royalist oaf.

"I rather liked the man," he said. "It's just that we have two ideologies."

Crean said he and Hamilton have a luncheon date in London some time later this year.

"The dice were loaded in his favor," Crean said of the verbal match. "The fact remains he's a man of words and it's a hell of a way to fight a duel."

Would-Be Bandit Ignored

A masked and armed man who tried to hold up three staff members as they left an Esquimalt beer parlor early today finally fled in a rage after being ignored by his would-be victims.

Clyde Ogilvie, manager of the Halfway House, 856 Esquimalt Rd., said he, tapman Ron Champion and waiter Terry Helmer, had just left the building about 2:30 a.m. to drive home when a man with a nylon stocking over his head and some sort of pistol in his hand ran up to them from a nearby service station.

The gunman ordered the trio back inside but they kept walking, telling him they were going home and that if he wanted in he should knock on the door.

For a few moments the three employees stood around while the gunman circled them, getting angrier by the moment. He finally fled across a parking lot.

Esquimalt police said today they are investigating the incident.

3 More Cities Topple in South

SAIGON (UPI—WP) — North Vietnamese troops and infantry today over-ran the Coastal cities of Qui Nhon, Tuy Hoa and Nha Trang as government defences crumbled and the threat to Saigon increased by the hour.

Rumors of a possible coup are sweeping the capital.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu abruptly cancelled a meeting with the U.S. chief of staff, Gen Frederick Weyand, President Ford's special envoy, on the eve of his departure for the United States. No public explanation was given.

At the same time militant Buddhist monks led by Thich Tri Quang, who led the struggle against President Ngo Dinh Diem, took to the streets for the first time in years with banners demanding Thieu's immediate resignation.

The monks were driven back into a pagoda by national police after a short march.

These and other developments signify rapidly mounting political trouble for Thieu as battlefield disasters multiply. Although he shows no present sign of giving in to his critics — whose numbers are increasing both on the right and left — his position is less secure ... n each passing day.

While government troops abandoned millions of dollars of U.S. equipment in their flight — some sources said more than $1 billion worth — the first plane of a U.S. emergency airlift arrived in Saigon

Dailly Raps Critics

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

VANCOUVER — Irresponsible public criticism of educational policies by the B.C. Teachers Federation could undermine public confidence in education and lead to a backlash, Education Minister Eileen Dailly said Monday. (See other BCTF stories on Page 16.)

Speaking to a crowd of about 800 on the first day of the BCTF annual general meeting, Dailly said the federation should be careful how it voices its concerns.

"For example, public attacks on internal personnel matters within the department of education, do not serve the cause of education," she said.

The minister was referring to strong criticism by outgoing BCTF president Jim MacFarlan of her firing of members of the education department's research and development division earlier this year.

MacFarlan called for Dailly's resignation over the incident and reiterated his stand in his farewell address earlier Monday.

Dailly urged the federation to insure "that when it brings its case to the government that it truly reflects the views of the majority of its own members," a statement the teacher audience applauded.

MacFarlan countered the statement immediately after Dailly's speech by saying the federation is always careful to ensure that the majority's views be reflected.

The minister said that negative criticism could create "an undermining of public confidence in education itself and a public backlash which could not only undo the gains which we together have made in the last three years but could return us in B.C. to the worst features of what we had before."

Some Gas Already Up By Two Cents a Gallon

The guidelines apply to wholesale prices only but the two-cent increase was being passed along at the retail level.

First to increase their wholesale prices was Standard Oil (Chevron) and Gulf Oil Canada. All other companies are expected to increase their prices this week.

Standard increased its wholesale price of gasoline two cents a gallon but did not alter any other prices at this time.

Gulf Oil raised its gas price by 2.4 cents a gallon wholesale. This was still within the guideline because its price had been half a cent below a previous guideline.

In effect Gulf raised its price by the half cent it was previously allowed and then raised its prices an additional 1.9 cents a gallon. It raised prices by 2 cents a gallon for home heating oil, aviation gasoline and jet fuel. Diesel fuel went up 2.2 cents a gallon wholesale.

(The provincial guideline of a two-cent increase applies to gasoline and heating oil only. Meanwhile, federal guides continue on all petroleum products. Companies must justify any price increases in terms of increased costs.)

The increases raise the average price of gasoline in Victoria to 61.9 cents a gallon for regular and furnace oil jumps to 37.9 cents a gallon.

Retail prices vary from station to station.

One Gulf retailer said he was raising his price by three cents a gallon although the wholesale price increase had only been 2.4 cents. Most stations simply passed the wholesale increase along without alteration.

$6,000 UFO Study

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Council has awarded a $6,000 grant to John W. Musgrave of Edmonton to finance an historical study of sightings of unidentified flying objects in Canada.

"It's not a put-on," said Paul-Emile Leblanc, head of the council's explorations program, in an interview today. "It's a serious study."

Musgrave has a master's degree in science and teaches at Athabasca University in Edmonton. He has been interested in UFOs for some time.

He intends to study newspaper clippings, journals and follow up with personal interviews with people who have sighted strange things in the sky.

The grant will cover his travelling expenses.

Canadian Killed On Cyprus

OTTAWA (CP) — Ian Patten, 29, a Canadian Forces captain who spent six weeks in Viet Cong captivity in 1973, was killed Tuesday while serving with Canadian peacekeepers in Cyprus.

The defence department said Patten, from Etobicoke, Ont., was killed by a bullet fired at his Nicosia hotel during shooting between Turkish- and Greek-Cypriots.

He was found in his room in the Ledra Palace hotel, which is occupied by the Canadian contingent to the UN force.

Nicosia was quiet today after the two-hour gun battle.

The shooting began around Nicosia international airport, closed since the Turkish invasion in July.

Greek-Cypriots and Turkish army troops face each other at close range there, and the firing rapidly spread throughout the capital.

The firing began when Greek national guard conscripts fired shots in the air to mark the 20th anniversary of the EOKA guerrilla uprising against the British colonial administration.

SIXTH HOLDUP

"I have a gun ... give me the money in the till," the man told Mrs. Hang-yu Lee, cashier at the store at 579 Niagara St.

He handed her a brown paper bag and motioned her to empty the till, then ran from the store without removing the gun from his pocket.

The cashier pursued him down Niagara to Government St., losing him at Battery St. The holdup occurred at 11:10 a.m.

This is the sixth robbery in Victoria in the past 10 days, five of which hit small stores.

Not Your Ordinary Mother

Mother is The Mother Earth News feature in the Victoria Times which has attracted a greater amount of mail from readers than any other feature which we have published.

Why is Mother so popular that some weeks hundreds and hundreds of Victorians write her? Because she offers honestly worthwhile ways in which readers can fend for themselves, do things for themselves, consume less, live richer lives.

The Mother Earth News has been a regular Tuesday feature in the Times' Family Section but its unparalleled popularity has convinced us that readers want more.

So, starting this week the Times will carry two Mothers — the regular Tuesday feature, plus a bonus on Fridays.

Gunmen Held in Coquitlam Manhunt

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — Two men were taken into custody today following an overnight search for four suspects wanted in connection with Monday's abortive robbery of a bank at nearby Coquitlam and the wounding of two RCMP officers.

Police said the two men, one of whom was armed, were arrested near the spot one of two cars used in the attempted holdup had been abandoned. They did not offer resistance.

Meanwhile, the RCMP pressed their search for the two other men. "It looks promising, but we've still got a hell of a long way to go," one RCMP official said. (See pictures, Page 28.)

The two RCMP officers were wounded — neither seriously — during a wild chase that followed the robbery attempt at a branch of the Bank of Montreal at nearby Coquitlam, about 15 miles east of Vancouver. Two other suspects also were at large.

Throughout the night about 50 RCMP accompanied by tracking dogs patrolled a cordoned-off area about two miles long by half a mile wide. Parts of the area were bathed in floodlights while many policemen carried rifles equipped with infra-red telescopic sights that permitted them to see in the dark.

Police concentrated in the area after daylight searches involving men, dogs and aircraft turned up a weapon belonging to one of the suspects and a wig and false mustache.

Police said the holdup attempt began when two armed men forced their way into the bank Monday morning as employees were arriving for work. Two accomplices remained outside, one acting as a lookout, the other ready to drive one of two getaway cars.

Brian Noble, the branch manager, notified police that he suspected something was wrong when he approached the bank. Several police cars arrived at the bank, but they were sighted by the robbers who fled.

During the getaway, one man sprayed the bank parking lot with bullets from a semi-automatic M-1 carbine. Another attempted to take a male employee hostage, but was pushed away.

When the two suspect cars split up, police concentrated their pursuit on the vehicle from which shots were being fired. It contained the two men who entered the bank. Meanwhile, the second car, occupied by a lookout man and his driver, escaped down a sideroad.

The first car, hit by four police bullets, later was found abandoned near here and the two men were believed to have fled into the bush.
